Chill Winds Fail To Daunt School Bands

U.S. Town Partially Evacuated

Flood Menace Rises on Fraser Chief Official Starts Inspections

Kootenay District Worst Trouble Spot

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Personal inspection of the serious flood menace on the Fraser river will be made this morning by Deputy Highways Minister Evan Jones. "We're more than a little worried," he said yesterday.

Level of the river at the Mission bridge rose from 12.01 feet Saturday to 18.04 feet yesterday as warm weather accelerated the run-off of the snow pack.

Flood conditions have been reported at Kimberley, Nelson and one or two other spots, said Mr. Jones.

MAJOR FLOOD

"Could another major flood such as that of 1948 develop?" he was asked.

"I think so," said Mr. Jones.

These developments were highlighted later as all residents were ordered out of low-lying sections of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, as the rapidly rising Kootenai river reached another all-time high and the flood watch approached its critical hour.

MOST ALREADY OUT

About 400 of the town's 2,000 population live in the lower section, but most had moved out earlier in the week.

Army trucks were provided to move all who had no transportation.

The worse trouble spot in British Columbia was on the Southern Trans-Provincial highway arounud Yahk in the East Kootnay district. More than 18 inches of water covered the road in some places.

Waldo bridge over the Kootnay between Elko and Roosville was reported in serious danger.

Local flooding was reported at Fernie.

SANDBAGGING

At Kimberley, where disaster first struck during the 1948 floods, sandbagging was under way along troublesome Mark creek and heavy equipment was on the job.

First bridge to go was over Wild Horse creek east of Fort Steele. The water of the Kootenay was reported rising over the road at Westport on the west side of the Fort Steele bridge.

"Cool weather will help a lot if we can get it," said Mr. Jones.

Two more feet up in two more days and then the Fraser river will drop for the time being without topping the 22-foot dikes at Mission water resources officials said Wednesday night.

The Fraser has already begun to drop at Prince George, down to 27 feet, which will lower the level at Hope and Mission within a coupie of days.

DROP STARTED

The Columbia river was up to 32.04 feet at Trail, but had begun to drop farther upstream at Revelstoke.

The flood situation in the east Kootenay was precarious with the sparkle of snow on the mountain tops in all directions flashing a threat of increased run-off if the weather continues warm.

These snows, during the past week, have swollen the small mountainside creeks feeding the Moyie and Kootenay river water systems into torrents, with trouble erupting in a number of centres.

Reports from Bonners Ferry said the river was dropping upstream at Libby, Mont., where it fell from 18.6 Wednesday morning to 18.4 in the afternoon. Two streams, the Moyie and the Yahk, flow into the Kootenai, however, between Libby and Bonners Ferry.

The weather office had forecast a peak of "36-plus" feet here Thursday and said the river should start receding slowly after that.

RECORD LEVEL

The 36.1 foot reading Wednesday was the highest on record.

More than 600 army engineers, infantry men and national guard troops are working around the clock with heavy equipment to strengthen the earthen barriers. The dikes are 37 feet high around town, 35 to 37 feet elsewhere.

Drinking water is still a problem. The domestic system was knocked out Monday when a 12-inch main was broken as district 7 dikes collapsed.

River water was pumped into the mains Wednesday for emergency use. Drinking water was being trucked in by creamery tankers from Sandpoint, Idaho, 37 miles away.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who has declared a state of emergency here appealed to Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington for more trucks to deliver the water.

Arabs Hold Bible Scrolls For Ransom

BALTIMORE (AP)—At least two newly discovered Dead sea scrolls have been stolen by Arabs and are being held for ransom, a Johns Hopkins University professor said Wednesday.

Dr. William F. Albright, professor of Semitic languages, said in a lecture that discovery of these scrolls had not been previously announced.

He said they were found in the same area which has yielded invaluable early Bible manuscripts in the last nine years—"less than a stone's throw" from the mother-house of the Essenes, a historic Jewish sect. The structure is on a soft limestone cliff overlooking a valley by the Dead sea.

Albright said the newly found sheepskin documents had been stealthily removed from under the noses of their guards by Bedouins, a group of desert nomads.

Studies of other Dead sea scrolls have convinced scholars there was a much closer relationship between Judaism and early Christianity than previously supposed, Albright added.

Scholars, by fixing the approximate dates of the scrolls' origin, have shown that certain Christian ideas and practices widely attributed to a period as late as the second century A.D. actually were common with the Essenes between the second century B.C. to about 68 A.D.

Alaska Poll Favors Panhandle Access

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—The people of Skagway, in an unofficial poll taken during a special bond election Tuesday, overwhelmingly approved the granting of Canadian accessways to the sea through the southeastern Alaska Panhandle.

Mayor Cyril Coyne said the poll was taken to determine sentiment on the subject which has been in the news recently. The vote on the proposed granting of accessways, or corridors, was 176 for and 66 against. Sixty per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

Approval was contingent on Canada granting American interests rights to use the headwaters of the Yukon river for construction of hydro-electric plants and smelters at Skagway.

Opponents Bring Pipeline Drive To Grinding Halt

By JAMES R. NELSON

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Conservative and Socialist opposition brought progress on the government's contentious pipelines legislation to a grinding halt in the Commons yesterday.

In three hours of procedural wrangling and three votes, they prevented the house from getting into detailed study of the bill sponsored by trade minister C. D. Howe. The measure would establish the Northen Ontario Pipe Line Crown Corp., and loan Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., $80,000,000 to make an immediate start on the western section of the all-Canadian gas line.

The finnal vote, on a motion by Opposition Leader George Drew to split the bill into two separate pieces of legislation, was the 225th since the pipeline issue first came before parliament early this session.

Drew lost, 150 to 67.

In another development, Carl O. Nickle (PC-Calgary West), who has consistently bucked his party's opposition to the measure to vote with the government, called on the Commons to convene its privileges and elections committee so he could remove "any remaining doubts as to my integrity and lack of personal financial interest" in Trans-Canada Pipe Lines.

His demand was in answer to Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), socialist party whip, who accused Nickle earlier of using his Commons vote to further his own financial interest because, as a

Terrorists Strike Again

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) —In a new wave of attacks Wednesday night, terrorists shot dead a Cypriot policeman and wounded the wife of a British serviceman.

The policeman was shot in a village 70 miles west of Nicosia.

The woman was wounded when a bomb was tossed into her home.

Three other British soldiers and two Cypriots were wounded by bombs.

Thwarted Girl, 13, Uses Gun

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A 13-year-old girl walked into a liquor store Wednesday, demanded money and shot the clerk when he grappled with her.

Sgt. Jack Ashinhurst of the sheriff's office said the girl told officers she took the .38-calibre pistol from the home of her parents and played hookey from school to hold up the liquor store.

He quoted her as saying she wanted the money "to get out of the state for excitement."

In serious condition in a Phoenix hospital with bullet wounds in the stomach and shoulder was Douglas William Walker, 26, the clerk.

SEATTLE (AP)—A month-long crime wave, involving five brush fires, broken windows, car prowling and letter stealing, ended Wednesday with the confession of a nine-year-old boy.

Thieves See Chance, Get $150,000 Haul

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UP)—An elderly New York jewelry salesman was robbed of $150,000 in jewels in two briefcases as he registered in the crowded lobby of a hotel here yesterday.

Herman Burg told police he put the briefcases down a few feet from him while he and his wife were registering. He said when he turned to pick them up they were gone.

Several persons in the Fort Harrison Hotel lobby, crowded with conventioners, said they saw two men hurrying out of the building with two briefcases.

The men, the witnesses said, jumped into a waiting car and sped off in the direction of Tampa, narrowly missing a collision.

Police said the theft appeared to be the work of professionals. They theorized that the thieves had been "following Burg around for some time — just waiting for such an opportunity."

Vancouver Seeks Study Of Metropolitan Setup

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Vancouver city council will ask the provincial government for a Royal commission to study the advisability of establishing a metropolitan form of government on the lower mainland.

Such a government would co-ordinate fire and police protection, plus sewage and other services. Mayor Fred Hume says such a setup would be more economical and efficient.

Frenchmen on Raft Challenge Atlantic

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Four adventurous Frenchmen hope to start drifting across the Atlahtic today on a 30-foot raft of British Columbia cedar.

The fishing dragger Promise is expected to take the craft in tow and leave it about 20 miles beyond the mouth of the harbor. The sailors had hoped to leave Sunday but the trip was postponed while the dragger received a new coat of paint.

Jose Martinez, cook and spokesman, said Wednesday the men are hoping for a good north wind to carry the 10-ton craft past the treacherous sand bars off Sable island, about 180 miles southeast of here.

Martinez and his French speaking companions, Henri Beaudot, Gaston Vanackere and Marc Modena, started working on their raft March 1 and put the finishing touches on it about a week ago. It cost $5,000.

Christened l'Egare (Lost One) II, it is sturdier than l'Egare I which was wrecked on the Newfoundland coast last year, 66 days after it left Montreal where the men live.

Pump Boat Swamps

Two B.C. Firefighters Die, First Casualties of Season

Two firefighters died in central B.C. yesterday, first casualties of the fire season. They drowned when their boat swamped.

They were George Douglas and Sam Castiakoff, whose home addresses were not known to the forest protection division here last night. They are probably residents of Prince George.

The men were transporting a pump across Tacheeda lake, about 60 miles north of Prince George, to fight fire in a dense timber stand.

Forestry officials placed the blaze close to McLeod lake, and about 6½ miles from the John Hart highway from Prince George to Dawson Creek.

Both men were normally employed by the Le Pas Lumber Co., operating in the Tacheeda lake territory.

Forestry men call the fire situation in Prince George "grim," but have few details.

A total of 28 new fires broke out in the Vancouver forest district in the 24 hours up to noon yesterday, but all were described as "small and under control."

There are 29 fires still burning in the district with 223 men engaged in fighting them.

The Gold river fire, which destroyed 300 acres of Island timber Saturday, is now under control and firefighters are mopping up.

At Pender Harbor about 15 acres were burned over in the Rudy lake area Tuesday before the flames were controlled.

Chief Forester D. B. Taylor said in Vancouver he and his men are "sitting on the edge of our seats" because of the extreme fire hazard in the Vancouver forest district.

"There's no hope of rain at all," said Mr. Taylor Wednesday. "Any fire could spread quickly. The situation's very serious."

Happy Wife Hails . . . . . Wonderful Act

Graham Saves Sight of Man, 32

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Arthur Weeds, who believes the eyes of executed murderer Robert Graham were used to restore her husband's sight, said Wednesday the 24-year-old miner hanged early Tuesday "did a wonderful thing for us."

Graham's family said Tuesday the corneas taken from his eyes an hour after he died on the gallows were used in an attempt to restore the sight of an unnamed eight-year-old boy.

But one of his sisters said Wednesday: "He wanted them to go to an eight-year-old boy he knew but he wouldn't mind who got them as long as they did someone some good."

Mrs. Weeds believes the corneas were transplanted to the eyes of her 32-year-old husband, totally blind in one eye and with the other one affected so badly he has been out of work for two months.

"In two or three weeks he'll be around again and able to see," she said. "Then we can go together and see the Grahams to thank them and show them the good their son has done."

Graham was hanged for kicking to death 21-year-old William Holman, who died in a brawl last August. The murderer was converted to Christianity a short time before he was hanged and filled out papers allowing use of his eyes to help a blind person.

Hospital officials confirmed they had obtained the corneas but said there was no eye grafting operation at the Vancouver General Hospital Tuesday when the corneas were reported to have been transplanted to the eyes of a small boy.

Inquiries about what had happened to the eyes brought only "don't know" answers from the hospital press officer. He said that eyes "lose their identity" when taken to the hospital and the person receiving them might not like to know where they were obtained.

"I don't mind where they came from so long as my husband can see," said Mrs. Weeds.

An eye specialist said, however, that "the eye bank is usually empty. We have an awful time getting corneas. When we get them we have to use them within 24 hours."

A hospital official admitted an operation was performed late Tuesday on an adult.

Horses Get Government Pay But This Time It's Legal

Even horses receive pay from the provincial government.

Latest salary scales for provincial highways department outside workers list the rate of pay for horses under the classification of manual labor.

A single horse is paid $2.80 for an eight-hour day and a team receives $6.

But, officials were quick to point out, there's no parallel with the famous Petawawa scandal, where horses were found to be on the army payroll. The money there went to individuals.

Some farmers in northeastern B.C. work off property taxes by using their horses to grade provincial roads near their farms. The number of horses so employed is dwindling as more and more farmers buy tractors.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THIS tale was passed to me as true. An old-time Saanich farmer (now retired) had a soft heart for people who were down on their luck. When a man came to him asking for help, he would say:

"Well, sir, I haven't any money, but if you want to come and stay with us for a while, and do a bit of work, you're welcome. Board and lodging is all I can offer."

He always had three or four such "hired men" around the farm.

He did undertake to pay one man (a good worker) $40 a month, but the months rolled by and he had no cash. Months became years, and at last, when some 14 years had passed, the hired man awoke to his rights, and asked for payment.

"Sorry," the farmer said. "You know darned well I'd give you the money if I had it."

"You owe me more than $6,000," the man said. "If you can't pay, there's only one thing for it. You give me the farm."

"I will," said the farmer. "On one condition."

"What's that?"

"You hire me for $40 a month."

"It's a deal."

* * *

And so the two men reversed their roles—the farmer became the hired man, and the hired man ran the farm.

The new owner made a fair job of managing the farm, and under his regime everybody ate well; but like his predecessor, he couldn't show a profit in cash, and he couldn't pay the $40 a month.

About 15 more years rolled by, and the former owner decided it was time to settle the affair.

"You agreed to pay me $40 a month," he said. "So far you haven't paid me a cent. What do you think would be a fair way to settle the debt?"

"I know what you're getting at," said the other man. "You want me to give you back the farm. All right. I'll do it."

And so their roles were reversed once again. The farmer took over management of his property once again, and the hired man reverted to his former rank.

* * *

How lucky (one might say) that the hired man was a person of high principles. He might have refused to return the farm.

But the fact was that the farmer never did transfer the title to his employee. No deeds and no money changed hands. And that was the way (my informant says) that a Saanich farmer gave away his farm and got it back, in those simple old days.

Lightning Starts Big Prairie Blaze

A two-alarm fire in Winnipeg caused $2,000,000 damage as it roared through the CNR's huge Fort Rouge yards, levelling the building and destroying 30 train cars. At the time of the fire—caused when lightning struck a power cable—no one was employed in the shop because of Victoria Day. Had it not been a holiday 300 men would have been working. Firemen fought the fire for over two hours before bringing it under control.—(CPC)

Russia-Bound Ships Troop Here for Repair

A salvaged German freighter entered drydock here yesterday—the third ship carrying grain for Russia to meet pump trouble in Pacific waters this month.

However, an official of King Brothers Ltd. shipping agency said: "It's not sabotage, just general wear and tear."

The latest troubled vessel is the 5,976-ton Hein Hoyer, whose engine-room circulating pump went dead when she was 500 miles out of Vancouver.

She went under the 100-ton crane at Yarrow's Ltd. yesterday morning and is expected to resume her sea journey Saturday or Sunday.

Hein Hoyer was salvaged in 1953 from the bottom of harbor of Narvik, Norway, where she and many other ships were bottled up and sunk by British forces 12 years before. Her machinery and pumps were cleaned, but left in the ship after salvage, and are still in use.

The 7,134-ton British freighter Amersham Hill left Victoria for Russia last Sunday after four days in drydock. Her bilge pumps went out out of commission 150 miles out of Vancouver.

Earlier, the 7,241-ton British freighter Indore spent three days here, from May 6 to 8, so that shipyard workers could repair a crack in the outlet of her engine room circulating pump.

Destination of all three vessels in Nahodka, U.S.S.R., 40 miles from Vladivostock.

If You're Over-Eating Something's Eating You

NEW YORK (UP) — Double entry bookkeeping will help doctors help fat people to reduce, in the opinion of an expert.

On one side of the ledger goes what the patient eats. On the other side goes what is "eating" the patient.

"In this way the doctor can quickly spot the difficulties that prod the patient to over-eat," said Dr. Wilfred Dorfman of Brooklyn in a lecture to a medical audience.

"The only logical cause for overweight is over-eating," he said, ruling out all explanations which are not centred on appetite. The "dilemma" is in what causes the greater appetites of people who over-eat and so become overweight.

He granted that many overweight persons assure their doctors that they eat "like a bird" when the scales show they have lost no poundage. These persons, he added, "fail to mention the species. Vultures and pelicans differ considerably from canaries and pigeons—both in food habits and capacity."

In dieting the middel-aged overweight man, the doctor must be careful, he warned.

"If you take away sexual activities to protect his coronaries, whisky to preserve his liver and gastic mucosa, cigarets to salvage his lungs and bronchial tree, and now try to take food away to keep him alive, he may begin to question his very motivation and need to stay alive," said Dr. Dorfman.

"The attitude of the doctor should be one of tolerance to the inherent difficulties in following a reducing regime. If the doctor becomes hostile, either directly or by innuendo, due to the threat of impending therapeutic failure, the patient will then have an excellent excuse to quit and once again resort to his favorite pacifier.

There's litle point in reducing a patient, unless his appetite gets an "education" in the process. "Permanency is obviously of greater importance than the speed of reduction," he continued. "Slower methods may provide a better opportunity to break existing feeding reflexes."

He thought "psychological and emotional factors" were "unquestionably of prime importance" in making people overweight. Food can be a symbol of friendship, of strength and security, of hostility, and it can be "a wall of defence." And commonly it can relieve anxiety.

"The emotional ramifications appear only when food is abused and becomes the major and constant means of soothing bruised sensitivities," he said. "Nagging sensations in the epigastrium may be symbolic of emptiness in the patient's life.

"Eating is the most common method of combatting anxiety in the obese. Reaching for a sweet instead of a solution to the many dilemmas of daily living can become a conditioned reflex."

Stalin's Fall Cancels History Tests

LONDON (AP) — Leningrad radio reported Tuesday night that many schools in the Soviet Union have been ordered not to have history examinations this year. The radio gave no reason, but the pupils presumably have not had time to bone up on the rewritten version of Russian history produced since the downgrading of Stalin.

'Forrein Floure Bloumeth Well'

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

"The Tulip or Dalmation Cap is a strange forrein floure which bloumeth in great aboundance between Hadrianople and Constantinople even in the midst of winter, in the moneth of Januarie, which that warme clymat seemeth to performe.

"I have one in myne own garden with a yellow floure and blacke bottome, but nature seemeth to play more with this floure than any I know, and giveth infinite varietie of colour."

John Gerard, 1597.

When the good Dr. Gerard wrote about nature's play with the tulip, he was no doubt refering to the phenomenon known as "breaking," although there are other ways in which tulip varieties can change color.

SEVERAL CHANGES

There are several changes which can take place, including breaking, when the flower petals become streaked or splashed with another color, and parroting, when the petal edges become deeply incised and fringed.

Years ago, when some of my yellow tulips first became attractively splashed with scarlet, an old-time gardener told me that this was a sure sign of disease, and my tulips would surely die. He advised me to pull up and burn all affected specimens—fortunately, I didn't have the heart to follow his advice.

OBSCURE VIRUS

It is known now that both breaking and parroting are caused by certain obscure virus infections, but these viruses are perfectly harmless and have no effect whatever upon the health of the plant. The virus is not transplanted by seed, and new tulips raised from seed are usually free from these streaks and splashes.

To aquire the fringed petals of the Parrot tulip or the attractive streaking of the "broken" varieties, the grower must either wait until his self-colored flowers become infected naturally, or deliberately infect his bulbs by grafting a piece of an infected one on to a sound bulb.

COLOR CHANGE

"Sporting" is something else again, in which a tulip may suddenly change its color or habit of growth without benifit of the virus infection. This is believed to be due to mutations or changes in the genes of the plant, and is not too well understood as yet, but we do know there isn't anything you can do to cause a tulip to sport or to prevent one from sporting and producing a new kind.

It seems to be governed entirely by chance, and all you can do is keep your fingers crossed and hope that if one of your tulips should suddenly produce a sport, the new variety may be so attractive as to make you a potful of money.

For instance, Dame Clara Butt produced a sport which was christened fantasy, and Fantasy, in turn, had an offbeat bright red offspring called Firebird. The well-known Inglescombe Yellow has sported two varieties: Fireside, yellow flamed with blood red, and Princess Margaret Rose, yellow edged with orange.

Nearly all the early double-flowered tulips are sports from Murillo, some of the best being Marechal Neil, yellow and orange; M. Van der Hoef, bright yellow; Orange Nassau, orange scarlet; Peach Blossom, deep pink flushed with white, and Schnoonoord, a pure white double.

From New Delhi to Peiping

Buddhists Celebrate Founding Of 2,500-Year-Old Religion

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters) — More than 150,000,000 Buddhists watched a full moon drift over Asia last night, signalling for them the 2,500th anniversary of the founding of their religion.

As the moon rose, robed clerics raised conch shells to their lips in temples across the Buddhist world from New Delhi to Peiping and blew an eerie note to signal the start of monks' chanting.

The temple observances, climaxing days of religious devotions, are in recognition of the moment 2,500 years ago that Buddha, a wealthy Nepalese prince who turned from his luxurious life to become an ascetic teacher of love and human kindness, died. His teachings became a religion which now rates numerically fifth among the world's great religions, and compares to 742,000,000 Christians.

Temple bells pealed at dawn to herald the opening of the holy day. Thousands of white-clad Buddhists went to temples all over Ceylon to offer their prayers. Ceylon's observances centred on the sacred city of Anuradhapura, in central Ceylon, which contains a tree regarded by Buddhists as the only surviving branch of the tree under which the Buddha attained enlightenment, and as the oldest living tree in the world.

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Nine men were drowned and two others were reported missing Wednesday in wind-whipped Lake Michigan squalls that capsized a fishing boat and sent a barge to the bottom.

Busy Beavers Halt Crack CPR Trains

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway said today a beaver dam which broke Tuesday night and washed out the west section of its mainline caused the derailment of a freight engine and 21 cars at Carlstadt, 89 miles west of Fort William.

No one was injured in the accident and work crews from Ignace, Ont., and Fort William were working to clear the line. The east mainline was expected to be cleared today. West-bound trains were rerouted.

The west-bound Dominion was expected to be 6½ hours late arriving at Winnipeg. The east-bound Dominion has been held up at Ignace, 58 miles west of the derailment.

The beaver dam which broke was 150 feet long and six feet high. The freight had 65 empty boxcars and 17 flatcars. Its derailment knocked down communication lines.

The 125-ton engine tumbled into a lake and fell over on its side. It was one-third submerged in water and the crew scrambled to safety through an open window in the cab.

Rails being transported to western Canada on the flat cars were sent flying by the impact. They cut down communication lines running parallel to the double tracks.

RCMP Paid On Offices 'Unofficial'

OTTAWA (CP) — Senior anti-combines officials said Wednesday they did not ask the RCMP to raid the offices of Toronto structural steel firms.

They were commenting on a Toronto dispatch quoting RCMP officials as saying they raided the offices Tuesday on orders from the combines investigation branch here. Files, desk, price books and other documents were seized.

Anti-combines officials said they are surprised by the report and assured reporters they had not ordered such a raid.

There must be some mistake, one official said. The branch doesn't use the RCMP to obtain information and has no interest at this time in the structural steel industry.

Boatmen Hold Bee At French Creek

PARKSVILLE—Members of French Creek Boat Owners' Association held a work bee over the weekend to install 80 feet of new float in French Creek boat basin as a temporary mooring for boats now ready to go in the water.

So many boat owners were waiting to launch their boats in the basin, it is anticipated the new float will be completely in use this weekend.

'Schweitzer Clinic Filthy, Racist'

PERTH AMBOY, N.J. (AP)—A Presbyterian minister has charged that the African hospital of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, Nobel Prize winner, is "filthy" and that "white supremacy" is practiced there.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Behrenberg, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Metuchen, said Tuesday the hospital in Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa, is "filthy beyond description" and "a color line is practiced there which is more severe than anything found in Alabama."

The minister, whose congregation numbers about 1,600, told a luncheon meeting of the Perth Amboy Kiwanis Club that Dr. Schwitzer in his thinking "is more a Hindu-Buddhist than Christian in respect to his extreme adherence to the doctrine of reverence to live."

As a result of Dr. Schweitzer's respect for life, the pastor said, "nothing is killed in the hospital area including insects, animals which deposit their filth everywhere including the operating room and animals with serious infection that mingle with the all-white staff and the patients."

He quoted Dr. Schweitzer as saying his hospital has to be primitive, otherwise the natives wouldn't come to him.

The minister said this is false because there are nearby missionary hospitals operated on democratic principles with strict standards of cleanliness and sanitation. He added these hospitals are heavily used by the natives.

Prison Lifer Gets Chance To Break Wall

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A lifetermer at the state penitentiary here will get to fulfil the desire of many prison inmates—he'll be allowed to knock a hole through the penitentiary wall.

Identified only as "Georgia Boy," the lifer heard that the east wall of the penitentiary would be extended 250 feet this summer. He asked superintendent Frank Smyth:

"Would you mind if I tore down the first hole? I've been wanting to knock a hole in that wall for a long time."

With several guards standing by, he'll do it.

Fire Razes Landmark

CRESTON, B.C. (CP) — One of the landmarks of the Creston area, Redmile's store at nearby Kitchener, was destroyed by fire Tuesday.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It started during the rush hour and flames quickly swept through the building. No one was injured.

Clergy Protests Godiva Contest

CARDIFF, Wales (NANA)—Church officials are battling organizers of a plan to have "Lady Godiva" ride through the streets of a Welsh mining valley June 16—wearing only a "long" wig.

Seven girls have already entered the competition for the title of Lady Godiva, who, says the legend, rode naked in the 9th century through Coventry at her husband's demand in answer to her own that taxes be lowered.

The girl selected will receive a $75 prize.

Typical comments by those opposed to the ride:

"We are going back to the dark ages."

"People don't want to see a nude lady on a horse."

Cyprus Violence

British Soldier Killed in Ambush

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UP)—Cypriot extremists ambushed a security patrol and killed one British soldier last night in a sharp exchange of fire in the Paphos district.

The patrol, travelling in a military vehicle, was fired on by extremists in well-hidden positions. The British troops returned the fire, and in the exchange one soldier was shot dead.

The ambush occurred shortly after the British colonial government announced a program of compulsory nationwide registration of Cypriots to help root out underground extremists.

The victim of the ambush was the 33rd member of security forces to die since the extremists began their campaign of violence in a movement to gain union with Greece.

Quick-moving police pounced on a Greek-Cypriot youth as he attempted to bomb an open-air public inquiry into Monday's bloody bombings which killed a British soldier.

The government also issued an order banning all scribbling of anti-British slogans on walls and provided stiff penalties for violators.

Gov. Sir John Harding, in disclosing the registration plan, said each citizen would be given an identity card which he must carry at all times.

He said the identity cards would make it easier for Cypriots to carry on normal movements through roadblocks and identity checkpoints set up in the hunt for extremists.

The announcement said the penalty for failing to register or giving false information would be 10 years' imprisonment.

Harding also signed the order making it illegal for anyone to scrawl or paint slogans on walls. It requires owners of property to remove such slogans immediately, no matter who paints them.

Violators can be jailed up to three years or fined $280, or both.

Don't Let Killer Live Cry Victims' Fathers

BOSTON (UP)—Two fathers of murder victims asked Wednesday that convicted slayer Kenneth R. Chapin, 20, of Springfield be sent to the electric chair.

Chapin is under reprieve from the death sentence for the slayings of baby sitter Lynn Smith and her charge, four-year-old Stephen Goldberg.

At a crouded public hearing before the executive council, the murdered girl's father, Paul R. Smith, said he was "surprised and shocked" that there was a move for commutation of the death sentence.

Bernard Goldberg, the murdered boy's father, told councillors he was not seeking "revenge or sympathy." He said he only wanted to see justice carried out.

"He stabbed my little boy 25 times. How can you let a thing like that go by? Here is a murderer you have right here. How can you let him go?

At U.S. H-Bomb Blast

Were Reds Looking?

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — Only Moscow really knows whether uninvited Soviet observers saw the first American test of a plane-dropped H-bomb.

Aircraft and destroyers of the test task force swept across sections of the 400,000-square - mile danger zone repeatedly in the days preceding and on the day the drop was made. And except for one instance, in which a Japanese fishing craft apparently wandered into the northeast corner of the zone less than 12 hours before detonation time, the patrols reported repeatedly that their sweeps had "disclosed" no unknown shipping in the area.

This meant that none had been seen. It did not necessarily mean that nothing was there. (Six ships and some 50 planes scoured one comparatively small part of the zone for two days in a hunt for a missing American airman who was aboard a light bomber when it crashed. This intensive hunt, with thousands of men serving as lookouts, sighted nothing.)

The Marshall islands are within easy reach of Soviet submarines based in Siberian or Red China ports. To slip into the warning area, close enough for a good look at the bomb, was a simple operation for Russian submersibles.

In the first public demonstration of a thermonuclear explosion, the precise location and time for the shot was announced in advance.

For a Russian submarine commander, there was no problem about being at the right place at the right time.

Four Nikes Near Perfect

RED CANYON, N.M. (AP)—The army's Nike anti-aircraft guided missile Wednesday turned in a near-perfect performance in continuing tests and demonstrations while an inter-service controversy over guided missiles continued in Washington.

Nike missiles scored hits on three of four radio plane drones which zipped over the target area here and exploded in close proximity to the fourth.

Judge Upholds Anti-Bias Statute

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—A judge, over - ruling defence contentions that Ontario is trying to make racial discrimination a "new crime," Wednesday upheld a magistrate's conviction of restaurateur Morley McKay for refusing services to Negroes.

Judge Harold Lang dismissed McKay's appeal, saying that the fact that a statute creates a penalty does not place it within the category of criminal law.

W. A. Donahue, McKay's counsel, said the act was an "attempt on the part of the province to create a new crime."

Racial discrimination existed, unfortunately—but it had never been considered a crime in Canada.

Judge Lang said it is perfectly clear that McKay's restaurant in nearby Dresden had denied service to Percy Bruce and Jake Alleyne, University of Toronto students who laid complaints.

It had not been necessary for McKay or a waitress to say: "I refuse to give you service."

Rather it was a "plain case of actions speaking just as loudly as words."

Satchmo Plays for 100,000

ACCRA, Gold Coast (AP)—One hundred thousand persons, some jiving and rolling in the noonday heat, and all waving and cheering with frenzied enthusiasm, turned out Wednesday to hear, see and welcome the "king of jazz."

Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong gave a concert before them, first of his three-day visit, in Accra's biggest park.

The climax came when Louis put on a swing number. The whole crowd went mad. Police had to be called in to control them and to allow filming to go on.

"This American guy wants me to desert my husband and marry music," exclaimed one devotee.

Another retorted: "Louis is a master at his instrument. He has made our local trumpeters look inferior. He can blow my house down."

Accra made a holiday of the "return" of the man who Wednesday afternoon declaimed: "After all my descendants came from here—and I still have African blood in me."

Satchmo was welcomed with the sort of demonstration usually reserved for heads of state and the local boy who makes good.

Ten thousand people roared a greeting at the sun-baked airfield. The king of jazz trumpetry acknowledged the tribute with a regal wave and a brilliant smile.

"I can stand it," he roared happily.

Fifteen dance bands from all over the country blasted out a specially-composed musical tribute—All For You, Louis.

Final Mozart Concert Demonstrates Greatness

By BERT BINNY

The last of a series of three concerts commemmorating the 200th anniversary of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart played at Victoria high school auditorium last night to a fair audience, but not as many as attended the second concert a week ago.

The program consisted of three numbers, first of which was Serenata Notturna (K 239), for strings and kettle drums. Off the three movements the menuetto was particularly pleasing.

Following this came a sinfonia concertante for violin, viola and orchestra (K 364). Once again there were three movements, the andante and presto being exceptionally pleasing. The soloists here were Clifford Evens, violin, and Harry Gomez, viola.

The last item in the concert was a further sinfonia concertante, this time for oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon. The movement, andante con variozioni, brought the item to a brilliant conclusion. Soloists were Roland Dufrane, oboe, Stanley McCartney, clarinet, Hans Stetzner, French horn and George Zukerman, bassoon.

These concerts have been in brilliant tribute to the genius of Mozart. Besides providing the best in musical entertainment, they must also have served materially in demonstrating how great the composer was, qualitatively and quantitatively. In the utter sincerity of the demonstration lies the excellence of the performances.

Legislation by Special Concession

ALTHOUGH Liberal supporters of the government and Social Credit adherents lined up in Parliament this week to give second reading to Mr. Howe's disputed pipeline bill by 163 to 65 votes, two of the government's main defences fell in the closured debate. It was established in Parliament that even to this date the administration has no firm contract with Trans Canada Pipe Lines, and on Mr. Howe's tardy admission cannot get one until the measure is enacted. Mr. Howe had indicated earlier that the government had a firm contract, but he was obliged to take this back. His explanation now is that there could be a firm contract the day after the enactment passes.

The second pop-out came when it was shown in Parliament that the option held by Trans Canada Pipe Lines on the necessary pipe supply for the western leg of the transmission line is in the form of orders held by three other concerns, and not transferable to Trans Canada Pipe Lines until the measure is enacted. The three firms, each with orders on a third share of the available supplies of pipe, were identified as Tennessee Gas Transmission Company (wholly American controlled); Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Company (about 75 per cent American controlled); and the Canadian Gulf Oil Company (now in merger with major American interests under a new Canadian set-up).

Breaking his long silence in the debate, Mr. St. Laurent conceded that the closures were "distasteful" to him, but the administration continued to apply the closures nevertheless and rammed the bill through second reading over the objections of the Conservative opposition and the CCF.

Discussing the issue of Canadian control of a resulting pipeline built on Canadian soil, the prime minister repeated Mr. Howe's assertion that 51 per cent of the voting stock would be offered for sale in Canada; agreeing, however, that this would be no guarantee of Canadian share ownership or control. Disregarding Mr. Drew's challenge that there was neither firm contract nor Canadian control in measure, the government advanced the bill to second reading after the second straight closure was applied.

It is evident from this the administration intends to ram the pipelines bill through regardless of all argument, and with little further explanation than has already been given in the House. If there were any factual answers to the contract which is no-contract, or to the pipe supplies which are obviously at present in other hands, they would have been used by the administration before this. So the Liberal regime has its head down and is charging ahead with its eyes and its ears closed. That is a poor way to make law. That is the certain way to make regretable mistakes.

Not to Parliament, which it treats with such obvious disregard, but to the people of Canada the St. Laurent regime will one day have to answer. It will then be asked why legislation by special concession had to be resorted to; in haste, by closures and still in its most essential elements much in blank? Is it to benefit promoters with a record of four postponements in their declared plans up to the present time? Why should the Canadian taxpayers accept any scheme in this nebulous state and underwrite it with their credit and cash?

Why Not Leave Them Here?

IT would be a distinct loss to Victoria were the Queen's Own Rifles moved away from this area. Because nothing definite was announced regarding their permanence when they came from Korea and settled in the Gordon Head camp a year ago, periodic rumors have been heard of the battalion's transfer elsewhere. Why it couldn't stay at Victoria indefinitely has never been made clear. The riflemen like to be here and no strategic considerations are involved; this is also an excellent place for peacetime training. The unit has fitted into the local scene with happy results, and the community has become proud of its association with the oldest regiment in the country.

There are two sides to a military establishment, economic and human. The first is of pecuniary value to the area concerned, and officers of the Queen's Own have pointed out the substantial contribution to city business deriving from a million-dollar payroll and the large purchase of supplies needed to keep the Gordon Head camp going. The second was illustrated anew last at last weekend's celebrations when the battalion thrilled spectators with the perfection of its drill in public spectacle. The unit has added greatly to the colorful attractions of the city, and its personnel have made themselves welcome associates of the people.

On both counts therefore the community cannot afford to lose the Queen's Own. One notes with satisfaction that Mayor Scurrah will make official representations to the defence ministry to have the battalion stationed here permanently; presumably the adjoining reeves would be glad to add the weight of their office. The influence of the members for Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich federal ridings might also be enlisted to persuade authorities that the best place for the Queen's Own is where they are. In the absence of any overriding military reasons for a transfer to some other location this area should not let them be moved without strong protest. There could be no excuse for depriving Victoria of their presence merely to suit the convenience of some other centre.

Too Many 'Chair-Borne Troops'

ALTHOUGH Canada is finding it impossible to maintain its standing armed forces at the strength called for by the defence program, no trouble appears to be experienced in keeping up the numerical strength of the mufti brigade. The number of civilians employed by the department of national defence has now reached 50,000, which comes close to half the total of the uniformed services. This means that it is taking more civilians to administer the affairs of fewer servicemen, because the total in uniform is going down instead of up. Whereas the defence program calls for a standing force of 120,000 men, the actual total was only 117,000 at the end of 1954 and is now down to 116,000, according to Defence Minister Campney's own admission.

Under the Dominion's policy of voluntary enlistment it is not surprising to find the forces unable to secure enough recruits at a time when able-bodied manpower is in short supply. That does not explain, however, why the defence department needs 50,000 civilians or what it finds for them to do in peacetime.

Most people will be inclined to agree with the remark of Senator W. D. Euler, a former cabinet colleague of the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King, that the department has far too many "chair-borne troops." When Senator Euler criticized the size of the civilian force during debate by the Senate finance committee it was explained by the assistant deputy minister of finance that civilians cost less than service personnel. That may be so; but it does not answer the real question: why is it necessary to have one civilian employee for every two men in uniform?

Interpreting the News

Psychological Damage

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE idea that the U.S. administration is putting too much emphasis on military aid abroad seems to have taken a firm hold on the House foreign affairs committee, without any great concurrent enthusiasm for increased economic activity.

The 24-4 vote confirming a billion-dollar reduction in administration requests sets a pattern for House procedure which the defence and state departments may find hard to overcome.

About the best they can expect is that the senate will pass a bill more to their liking which will later produce a partial restoration when the measures go to conference.

The Pentagon thinks it needs the money to follow through on the generally adopted view of the Allies that a modern arms program will maintain anti-Communist strength without the manpower they find difficult to supply.

The committee takes the view that, with left-over money from previous appropriations, everything can be done which really needs to be done while a new evaluation of the whole foreign aid program is being made. Chairman Richards (D., S.C.) points out that Congress will be back in January to take another look.

That will be after the elections, when Congress will also be in a better position to look objectively at the aid program.

Administration spokesmen are saying that the cut will represent a great disappointment to the Allies, which may be true more in a psychological than a material way.

It may encourage the sentiment, already of sizable proportions, that danger from Russia has diminished not only from a military standpoint, but also from a political standpoint. There are a good many people around who think that, by shifting from the threat of force to economic warfare, Russia has challenged the West in the one field where she has least chance of success.

They tend to overlook the fact that Russia's great industrial progress over a relatively short term is a powerful recommendation for totalitarianism to under-developed people who are in a great hurry. The prime consideration in these matters is, "what does Russia want?"

That can be judged by where she has applied her greatest efforts, and that is against the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, through which the Allies present deterring military strength.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

EATING is such a pleasant diversion, indulged in by everyone, you would think even a fictional character couldn't escape it.

I suppose actually the consumption of food shouldn't be called a diversion; it being in fact a main dish. It is one of the few compulsions of life which man has contrived to turn to his own rich delight.

And of course if no one ever ate half of the world would be unemployed.

Benjamin Franklin suggested that everyone should eat only in order to live and not vice versa, a boring piece of advice which thankfully has been ignored.

"When do we eat" is perhaps one of the most eager cries in existence.

It's a surprise therefore, as I say, that eating does not impinge largely on almost every story we read, that at least once a day we should not find the characters grouped round the table.

* * *

It might be simply that food is taken for granted, like shoes on the feet. No author finds it necessary to tell his readers that his hero puts on footwear when he goes out to business; the reader might think he is overdoing the realism.

Even so however there are times when one misses this touch of the norm.

I am currently following Ben Bolt's bid to hold his boxing championship, for instance, and candidly I am worried. Needlessly, perhaps. He was so stupid a fellow as to let his naive uncle supervise his training that he deserves all he gets. But so far he hasn't eaten a bite these past few weeks and if ever a man needs nourishment surely it's on the eve of a scrap.

The comics don't dwell overmuch on food, as a matter of fact. I haven't seen Mary Worth having breakfast for months on end. Actually you could say we don't see much of Mary Worth, period. She rests mainly on the laurels of her name. Perhaps of course she keeps out of sight because she is overfond of delicacies, although the last time she appeared she seemed to have been on a diet.

Similarly Rip Kirby, Kerry Drake and a few others manage to stay robust without food. And Bumps and Jeep are certainly out of character without a popsicle or a hot cross bun or something equally edible.

* * *

Not since Charles Laughton demonstrated that a bone between the fingers is the neatest, natural way to demolish a turkey—thereby arousing acute envy among diners in public—have I seen a real honest-to-goodness meal consumed in the movies.

The movies allegedly reflecting life in general, this is somewhat peculiar. One often enough sees a character take off or put on his coat and the average man in everyday life will scarcely do that more often in a day than he eats. Why then should the eating habit be so underplayed?

Of course I may not be well up in my movies these days.

But certainly eating on films runs a poor second to having a drink, and I don't mean of water. Come to think of it seldom either in book or film does the hero drink a glass of water. But on entry into a room a movie character automatically moves to the decanter.

A stranger to our ways might easily conclude that every family is alcoholic, which I doubt is the case.

One other ready habit of film characters worth noting perhaps is the gun that lies handy in a drawer. Every home seems to have one, when in truth they are much more apt to have ham and eggs in the refrigerator.

At all events, although authors no longer starve in garrets, the consumption of food is sadly neglected in the stories we read about or watch on film. And eating is the biggest industry, bar none, in the whole wide world.

Reports from Ottawa

AN open letter to Lord Talbot de Malahide, United Kingdom ambassador at Vientiane, Laos:

My dear Lord Talbot:

You will remember that during one of our conversations in your office last fall we noted that as French is an important language in both Indo-China and Canada, and as Canada has attained a high degree of technical achievement, a great opportunity exists for Canada to extend technical assistance to Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Yet when we spoke, Canada had done practically nothing.

I am happy to be able to report that the Canadian government has now appreciated this opportunity, and is acting on it.

A few days ago I met the first group of Indo-Chinese to come to Canada for technical training. These 37 Vietnamese and two Laotians will spend six months studying at the Faculte d'Agriculture of Laval University, at Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, in French-speaking Quebec. Half of them will learn to be tractor driver-mechanics. A quarter will learn the intricacies of machinery used in road-building and maintenance. And the rest will be trained in the use of farm machinery.

* * *

But as you know, it is not only technically trained people that the fledgling countries in southeast Asia need. I was shocked to learn when I visited Laos last fall that in this country, with its population of perhaps a million and a half, there was only one Laotian physician and one Laotian engineer.

The Canadian government wants to help overcome this shortage too. Consequently it has invited the governments of Indo-China to send 20 students to Canada for full university courses in such fields as forestry engineering, geology and electrical engineering. The plan envisages 10 students from South Vietnam, five from Cambodia and five from Laos. It is hoped that they will arrive in time to enroll in French-speaking Canadian universities next September.

And as you may have heard, the son of Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos is expected to enter the University of Montreal next semester. The prince's son will be enrolled as an ordinary foreign student, and not as one of the 20 to be educated at Canadian expense.

Officials of the Department of External Affairs assure me that if these two projects are successful, they undoubtedly will be followed by others of similar nature. A growing number of our foreign office people have served on the armistice commissions in Indo-China, and require no convincing as to the education need there. Nor do our foreign minister, Mr. Pearson, and our prime minister, Mr. St. Laurent. Father Louis Roy, the vice-provincial of the Redemptorist Order in Indo-China and formerly of Dorchester, Quebec, is a personal friend and correspondent of Mr. St. Laurent. And you know of Father Roy's interest in education in Indo-China.

* * *

I regret that there has been little progress in the other matter we talked of—the desirability of Canada sending French-speaking technical experts and teachers to Indo-China.

I am informed that such aid is blocked by political considerations, at least so far as Vietnam is concerned, and probably in relation to Laos as well. As you know, Canada is in the role of an arbiter between opposing sides in those countries, and the despatch of Canadian experts to one side and not the other might jeopardize Canada's position.

Yours sincerely,

GERALD WARING.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THE great success of the movie "Marty" launched the cult of the homely man. Now Broadway is celebrating "The Most Happy Fella," a musical, the hero of which is a middle-aged opera singer, Robert Weede, who is no whit better looking than the hero of "Marty," who won the Oscar and the hearts of multitudes of men and women, old and young.

In the past we have had some heroes of stage and screen who, like Wallace Beery, were not exactly handsome but they had size and strength and a kind of burliness that made up, in some perverse way, for what passes for handsomeness otherwise. But the new type of hero is not only not handsome, he is a bit flabby. And this ought to be big news for the average man.

For I believe it is the start of a new era in Hollywood. Since the start of the industry there, the principle of casting has been to build up a handsome star or a beautiful star and then tear the literary world apart searching for parts for these stars to play. Often enough, the story they bought had to be further torn apart in order to fit the star.

The British movies, on the other hand, approached from the exactly opposite direction. It was the story that was all-important. And the directors, having studied the story, then went looking for somebody capable of playing the part for reasons having nothing to do with his or her looks, or stardom, or anything but talent for this one job.

And the best of the British movies are still those that observe this rule and give us unknown actors in fidelity to the story; while the worst of the Hollywood movies are those that stick strictly to the old principle and give us famous stars in ever-cornier parts.

Maybe the cult of the homely man, which after all is as old as Methuselah who, I am told, was a pretty homely old cuss, and followed up through the centuries with Caesar and his mole and bald head, to Abraham Lincoln and even some more recent idols of us all, will now rise in Hollywood. And the man who plays Cyrano to the next generation won't have to wear a false nose. He can wear his own.

The TV repairman was trying to locate the trouble in a customer's set. A six-year-old watching the whole operation said: "I'll bet if you'd clean out the dead cowboys from the bottom of the set it would work again."

A man and two children entered a restaurant and ordered three plates and three glasses of water. Then they produced sandwiches and began to eat.

"Here," roared the manager, "what are you doing?"

"And who are you?" asked the diner?"

"I'm the manager."

"Good," said the man. "I was just going to send for you. Why isn't the orchestra playing?"

Apartheid Policy

Intentions Put to Test

By HENRIK KROGIUS
North American Newspaper Alliance

JOHANNESBURG — The Union of South Africa stands at a crossroads. It must decide whether or not it is really possible to carry out a policy of complete racial segregation.

The problem has been brought into sharp focus by the long-awaited publication of the Tomlinson Commission's report. This commission, appointed by the government in 1950 to study the race problem, recommends that seven national homes be established for the native African population and that all possible speed be adopted to move Africans from white areas to these national homes.

At the same time the commission calls for $300,000,000 to be spent during the next 10 years to develop the African areas.

The problem for the government is that the commission does not offer an easy solution, and it is not intended as a way of keeping the Africans down. If the report is carried out, white South Africans will not only have to dig into their pockets to pay for native development but also will gradually have to begin to do without cheap black labor.

Professor F. R. Tomlinson who headed the commission is regarded as something of an idealist on the subject of apartheid, or segregation, and the report is not based on a simple doctrine of white supremacy.

Instead, the commission argues that the Africans will inevitably, even if slowly, reach equal development with the whites. But, human nature being what it is, says the commission, the whites will try their best to remain in control.

Since Africans outnumber whites 3-1 they eventually will reach the point where they will demand control, argues the commission, and they will get it through violence.

To avoid this, the only answer is to have separate countries in South Africa for white and black, the commission concludes. And out of Christian concern for other human beings, the whites have the responsibility of seeing that the Africans really do progress; that they are not merely left to starve on land that they have not learned to till efficiently.

* * *

The Nationalist government of Prime Minister Johannes G. Strijdom, which officially stands for this ideal concept of separation, cannot very well disagree with the principles of the Tomlinson report.

However, it may face political trouble from its own supporters in trying to implement it. Many of the people who voted the Nationalists into power did so with very little concern for the development of the Africans, and they may not want to pay for the cost of carrying out the Tomlinson report.

Many Afrikaans farmers, who have been among the most ardent supporters of the Nationalists, are considered particularly unlikely to want to part with native labor in the course of time, or, as would happen in some cases, have to give up their land to native areas.

Naturally the Tomlinson report will be opposed by the many people who oppose the government and its apartheid policy, and the government may face a problem with Great Britain as well.

Up to now, Great Britain has administered three regions, Bechuanaland, Swaziland and Basutoland, which have an almost complete African population and which lie within, or adjoining, the Union of South Africa. Under the Tomlinson report these three areas would form the cores for three of the seven national homes, and they would have to fall under the jurisdiction of South Africa.

Since Great Britain has been extremely critical of the apartheid policy, it seems unlikely that she will turn these areas over, even though they have no particular economic value for her.

* * *

Because of all these difficulties, most observers doubt that the Tomlinson report's recommendations will be adopted by the South African parliament.

However, the report cannot lightly be brushed aside. It represents the first time in the Nationalists' nearly eight years in power that their apartheid policy has really been spelled out. The report is a test whether their intentions toward the blacks are good or not.

For that reason, there are those observers who think that the Nationalists in parliament will vote to spend the $300,000,000 for the first 10 years' development.

But whether the $300,000,000 will do more than support the natural increase in the African population (which now is 8,600,000, as against 2,700,000 whites and 1,500,000 Asians and persons of mixed blood) and whether it will suffice to redeem the badly-eroded land of the present native areas, are questions that remain. Many feel that the $300,000,000 is a minimum the government would have to spend just to keep things as they are.

Thus it would seem that the Tomlinson Commission has bitten off more than it can chew.

Bingo and Stocks

With reference to the United Church resolution reported in the Colonist, Sunday, May 20: While I hold no brief for or against gambling in any form, it is interesting to note that the voice of the churches is never raised in condemnation of stock exchanges.

I suggest the Ten Commandments be taken from the dusty archives and re-read. Or have these been superseded by more "modern" exhortations?

Why Not Canadians?

I see that the B.C. Golf Association accepted an American entry that was received later than the closing date of May 11, His handicap is one (1). Why is it, then, that they would not accept a Canadian entry that was mailed a day late on May 12, with a seven (7) handicap?

I will agree that there is a long uphill climb from a seven handicap to a one handicap in this game called "golf." But if they accept an American they should at least make Canadians equal. I only counted 89 entries in the draw published; the limit was 99, according to the tournament rules committee.

I believe that the B.C. Golf Association is right in setting a closing date, but I figure that if they accept one they have to accept them all.

Pasteurized Milk

In reference to the act compelling pasteurization of all milk, which is due to come into effect on July 1, may I suggest that there is neither demand nor necessity for this, from the ordinary man's point of view. There are already plenty of laws on the statute books designed to ensure clean milk supplies from clean dairy farms and herds. If these were properly enforced there could be no need for any fear of dirty milk needing pasteurization, and consequently no further restrictions upon our dwindling freedoms. It is to be hoped that the city council will pass the necessary by-law immediately, so that those of us, and there are many, who prefer raw milk may continue to obtain it legally.

Prospectors Needed

The need and scope for greater efforts in mineral and oil explorations on Vancouver Island and elsewhere in B.C. are evident. From many authoritative sources we hear of the potential mineral and oil wealth of unexplored areas of B.C., but with few prospecting expeditions of the enterprising and adventurous spirit that characterized our Canadian pioneers.

Where are the energetic young men today with that spirit? Do they need guidance? Do they lack courage? Are industrial wages, poolrooms, dancing and hot rods of greater concern today than wholesome outdoor adventure? Prospecting requires a hardy, sporting spirit with a buoyant optimism of important thrilling discoveries.

Having regard to the highly successful Ontario Prospectors' Association, a B.C. prespectors' association might be effectively established in Victoria to promote and encourage prospecting in B.C., including Vancouver Island areas, and to provide suitable training facilities with all necessary guidance and information regarding government "grubstakes" (cash grants) available for bona fide prospectors. The functions of the Chamber of Mines, Vancouver, appear to be somewhat limited.

Ontaria appears to be leading also in the field of radioactive mineral exploration by the effective employment of amphibians and helicopters, electronically-equipped for "aero-magnetic surveys." (Electro-magnetometers are towed at the end of a cable.)

We need greater enterprise, initiative, courage and vision in the realm of mining exploration in B.C., combined with adequate government encouragement, co-operation and support.

Hardy Shrubs

It is regrettable that in our city of gardens, you have given prominence, in your Sunday edition, to an article in which some misleading statements about suitable plants occur.

As a professional gardner with experience here and in England, may I say that Victoria's climate is favorable to the growth of an extremely wide variety of the choicest plants available for a temperate zone. It is true that many shubs in public and private gardens suffered last winter and nurserymen sustained considerable losses, but from day to day we are being surprised and delighted to find many shrubs, presumed killed, now sending out shoots and new basal growth, which may ultimately result in better shaped, bushier specimens, in spite of the loss of this season's bloom.

Most varieties of cotoneaster and the chamaecyparis Elwoodi and Fletcheri, refered to as novelties making their debut this fall, have been well known in Victoria and the whole gardening world since the beginning of this century. It seems unfortunate that the material for your front page article should have come from an obviously unreliable source, when Victoria is fortunate in having several excellent societies and experienced nurserymen of international repute to guide our local gardeners in the planting and improvement of our beautiful district.

High Level Talks Set On Rivers

OTTAWA (CP)— A Canadian-United States study of control of waters lying across the international boundary was announced Wednesday.

It will be the first general examination of this subject by the two governments in nearly 50 years. The proposal was announced simultaneously here and in Washington.

No details as to time and place of meeting and make-up of the conferring groups were immediately available.

The last major conference on these problems brought into existence the boundary waters treaty of 1909 and the international joint commission which administers it. The operation has been an outstanding success.

Resources Minister Lesage indicated Wednesday the provinces will not take part in a formal Canada-United States study of international river problems.

He informed the Commons, however, that he has told provincial governments he will welcome their views and suggestions and will confer at Victoria June 5 with Premier Bennett of British Columbia on the question.

Mr. Lesage said preliminary talks will be carried on "for some time" by a team of federal officials.

Canada Must Brush Up Hospitality

TORONTO (BUP) — Seven million American tourists are expected to visit "cool, uncrowded" Canada this year and they've been promised "more of everything" in this country's drive to keep United States vacationers heading north each summer.

Canadian travel authorities, alarmed at the growing popularity of European vacations which threatened to siphon off a large share of the U.S. tourist dollars left here every year, warned resort operators they would have to provide more hospitality and better food and accommodation.

Intensive self-improvement campaigns conducted within the resort industry by government tourist bureaus and the Canadian Tourist Association have resulted in much-improved vacation facilities, officials said.

The Canadian government travel bureau at Ottawa reported inquiries from U.S. tourists running at a record rate this year, indicating this country still is the favorite goal of most American vacationers.

Although about the same number of American tourists are expected this year as in 1955, officials hope for a new record spending, surpassing last year's peak of $329,000,000. The record number of foreign tourists to visit Canada in any one year was in 1954, when 7,250,000 sampled Canada's vacation attractions.

However, Canada has been carrying an "unfavorable" tourist balance. Canadians took an estimated $361,000,000 into the U.S. last year.

Canadian travel authorities also have said that only about 30 cents of every dollar spent abroad by American tourists has flowed into Canada in recent years. This compares with 44 to 51 cents in the 1940's.

In addition to offering prospective tourists better food and accommodation, several major new vacation attractions have been opened in Canada recently.

In Western Canada, the prairie province of Saskatchewan has begun bidding for American tourists in a big way by exploiting its thousands of untouched lakes in the northern part of the province as a new fisherman's paradise.

British Columbia, which always has drawn a large number of U.S. tourists with its Pacific coast playgrounds and spectacular Rocky Mountain scenery, has added another lure by pushing through the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to tap a fabulously scenic area. The 428-mile line, which runs north out of Vancouver, up the coast and then inland to Prince George, knifes through the coast mountain range and into historic ranching and mining country.

Inquest on Drowned Boy

Cruising Guard Urged for Pool

A recommendation that when the Crystal Garden swimming pool is crowded one lifeguard should "cruise" around the pool and a second guard observe from a tower was made yesterday by a coroner's jury.

The jury brought in the recommendation with a verdict of accidental drowning on Monday afternoon of Gary Pollock, 14, of North Vancouver.

His father, Arthur Pollock, said the boy was not able to swim, having begun to learn only last summer.

Dr. D. B. Roxburgh, St. Joseph's hospital pathologist, said a post-mortem examination disclosed the lad "obviously died of drowning."

Lungs contained water and the stomach was filled with food, of which little was digested. Asked about an "old idea" of not swimming until a meal is digested, Dr. Roxburgh said it was "something of value to remember."

Fire Chief Frank Briers said that while at the pool it was found difficult to locate a doctor to attend the scene and the boy was removed to St. Joseph's hospital.

He found the situation "well in hand" when he arrived with a crew, one man correctly applying artificial respiration and a second attempting to induce blood circulation. He said his crew applied oxygen.

Lifeguard Douglas Crabb, 1115 Balmoral, pulled the boy from the 7½-foot depth of the pool. He estimated there were 125 swimmers in the pool.

He said it has to be taken "for granted" persons can swim. He gave details of two ropes on floats stretched across the pool, at about the three-foot depth, "to keep swimmers away from the kids."

Mr. Crabb said the pool has a lifeguard's chair on a tower but that it is necessary to keep moving around.

Spectator Norman McLeod, [illegible] count of 125 swimmers.

"I counted 150 then gave up. I could have walked across on heads they were so thick. There must have been 200 in there, not 125," he said.

Prefacing his evidence of the incident with an account of placing a cigar in a cup of coffee he purchased from a refreshment stand where the "girls all know me," Mr. McLeod said he saw the boy apparently cry out, clap his hands and go down.

"It looked as if he were going for a ladder on the side," Mr. McLeod said.

He added that as he tried to go over the rail from his seat to the pool, but was unable to do so, one of two lifeguards at the "deep end" dived into the water and brought the boy to the surface.

Bail Refused Man On Shooting Charge

Bail for Frank Miller, retired Jordan River logger charged with discharging a firearm with intent to cause bodily arm, was refused yesterday in Supreme Court.

The application was made by counsel, J. A. Byers, and opposed by Neil McDiarmid of the attorney-general's department.

The court stipulated the refusal was without prejudice to any future application by Miller, who appears today in provincial court on a remand without plea.

He was charged following an incident at Jordan River May 18 in which it is alleged shotgun blasts were fired at boom-men.

Cleric Father Turns Son In

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Philadelphia clergyman turned his 13-year-old son over to police for taking $200 in church funds. Rev. Clarence L. Taylor told detectives he did it "to teach my boy respect for law and decent behavior." The boy, George, 13, was sent to the youth study centre.

Board Approves Student Switches

Greater Victoria School Board Monday approved a decision to discontinue accommodation of Grade 9 students from John Stubbs school in District 61 high schools.

Grade 7 pupils at Lampson Street and Victoria West schools will remain at those schools next term. Majority of Grade 8 pupils at Lampson Street school next fall will remain there for a while, but will be considered part of the High school enrolment.

Most pupils promoted to Grade 8 at Victoria West will remain there, and a combined class of Grade 8 students will be drawn from Lampson Street and Victoria West and assigned to Esquimalt High on the basis of courses chosen.

Board decided to call tenders for removal or demolition of the following buildings:

A dwelling at 1030 Wyehbury adjoining Macaulay school; the industrial arts building and two-room annex at Lampson street; three-room annex at Willows; dwellings at 1220 and 1226 North Park and 1219 Vining adjoining F. T. Fairey vocational school.

Board also transferred 116 teachers, principals and supervisors from probationary to permanent status, including 30 secondary, 65 elementary, seven home economics and six industrial arts teachers, five principals and three supervisors.

The Northwest Territories cover 1,304,000 square miles, roughly one-third of all Canada's 3,845,000 square miles.

Pipeline Drive Grinds to Halt

director of an Alberta oil and gas firm, Nickle stood to make profits on the sale of Alberta gas to Trans-Canada.

Nickle answered the charge by declaring as soon as it was made early Wednesday morning, after the House had sat through the night, that he had established a $100,000 charitable foundation to which all his parliamentary indemnities, $10,000 a year, and an amount far greater than he stood to earn from [illegible] investments, had gone for scholarships and other charitable work in Alberta.

Speaker Rene Beaudoin said privileges and elections committee chairman G. R. McWilliam (L-Northumberland, N.B.) "no doubt . . . has taken note of (Nickle's) request and after consulting with him and others who are members of the committee, whatever arrangements are required might be made."

Nickle does not intend to run for re-election.

APPEARANCE ARGUED

Most of the afternoon sitting was spent arguing whether or not motions presented by Drew, Knowles, and E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) could be debated. Speaker Beaudoin finally ruled they could not.

Fulton proposed that the $80,000,000 loan to Trans-Canada should not be made unless the majority of Trans-Canada's issued shares of capital stock were owned by Canadians. Beaudoin ruled it out of order because it could be raised later in the debate more appropriately.

Knowles proposed that Trans-Canada's agreement with the government be appended to the bill, and Beaudoin ruled the same way. He was upheld by a vote of 153-66.

Beaudoin ruled that Drew's motion demanded that the bill be split into two was in order, but not debatable. His ruling was upheld, 152-67, and Drew's motion defeated, 150-67.

The sitting was punctuated by angry outbursts from all sides of the house, as members' tempers were short after the long night sitting and only a few hours rest before the commons met again. However, last night gas the mood Wednesday night off for the parliamentarians, and the pipelines debate was to continue today with all combatants rested.

Alistair Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North) complained bitterly that the government put up no speakers in the procedural debates to answer the opposition argumentism.

"I don' like what's going on here," he declared. He said Speaker Beaudoin was being put in an invidious position of having to argue on the government's behalf.

When CCF leader M. J. Coldwell poined in the procedural debate at one stage, Liberals called out "sit down," and Coldwell snapped back "we've had enough closure here."

Every time Knowles rose, he was greeted by boos for his action in challenging Nickle's vote early yesterday morning.

Finance Minister Walter Harris, government house leader, grew short-tempered at the protracted opposition arguments on the rules.

PUT THE MOTION

"We have put a motion before you," he told Speaker Beaudoin, "and we want it put."

But speaker Beaudoin said he would not be rushed. Some of the points of order and precedents raised, he said, made it difficult to make snap decisions. He asked the House to let him go to his study to [illegible] privately, but a new wrangle arose, with the Conservatives wanting to continue talking while he was away from the chamber, the government wanting the House to suspend its sitting.

To another chorus of catcalls when Coldwell rose, the CCF leader shouted: "I wonder if we are in the reichstag, or the Canadian parliament."

ANGRY CHALLENGE

He angrily challenged one of Beaudoin's rulings, declaring, "We must be right on some occasions." Speaker Beaudoin said if that was a reflection on his judgment, Coldwell could move a formal motion to have Beaudoin removed.

"I think you are human, and may err," Coldwell said. "And I think right is on our side. However, I will withdraw any reflection you may feel I have made on your honor."

Phonograph Record Loan Service, Cultural Talks Planned by Library

Launching of a phonograph record lending service, a series of bi-monthly talks on fine arts and development of an expanded film library are planned by the Greater Victoria Public Library, it was decided at a board meeting yesterday.

A person borrowing a record, suggested Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, should make a deposit of one dollar, be allowed to borrow a maximum of one complete opera, one symphony, one musical comedy, or three mixed long-play records; and be allowed to keep these records a maximum of seven days.

"We are trying to get these records into the hands of people who can't afford to buy a library of records," said James Neely, president of the board.

The library now has a small collection of records used to present monthly concerts.

James Lort, chief librarian, said the board hopes to buy more records and set up the lending service after the return of Prof. Robert Wallace, a member of the board, from the Canadian Library Association conference at Niagara Falls in June.

Prof. Wallace is to look into the record-lending practice of other Canadian libraries, and report back to the board.

Capt. Proudfoot proposed that a bi-monthly series of programs dealing with various periods in the fine arts be instituted in the fall.

"This is our chance to start to develop what we should have developed 20 years ago, a proper centre of culture in this province," he said.

The series should begin in September and continue to March, he said, and include speakers on literature, music, poetry, art and furniture.

Prof. Wallace described the proposal as "an extremely smart idea," and said part of the $10,695 provincial grant might be used to pay speakers.

Mr. Lort, later outlining the planned uses of the grant from the provincial public library commission for the 1956-57 year, [illegible] $3,000 for this item and other cultural activities.

Other planned uses of the grant include $750 for plastic book covers, $750 for the catalogue department, $300 for reading room equipment, $1,000 each for purchase of records, films and art reproductions, and $5,000 for the purchase of new books.

The library board accepted the uses of the money in principle and asked Mr. Lort to prepare a letter outlining them.

Capt. Proudfoot told the board that the pool of 750 films stored at the University of British Columbia is to be distributed to the five main film centres in the province, including Victoria.

A PADRE IN PRINT

By REV. WILLIAM HILLS

That droll fellow, Don Quixote de la Mancha, used to go about the Cervantes countryside, accoutred in a rusty suit of armour, tilting at windmills.

His old nag, Rosinante, carried him bravely into the fray but the results were always the same.

The Don was clanked — knocked flat on his back — and the windmills went on turning.

With this in mind, this column should realize that discretion is the better part of valor, but I'm in a windmill-tilting mood this morning.

It's this business of celebrating the twenty-fourth of May on the twenty-first.

Man, it's crazy even if it is convenient.

The day has lost its significance.

What did we hear about the Empire or the Commonwealth?

Well, Alderman Austin Curtis did deliver some well chosen words to a crowd of school children on the steps of the legislative buildings on Friday morning, May 18, but the youngsters were more interested in the school sports which were to follow that day.

It wasn't the alderman's fault or those patriotic members of the IODE.

Christian Festival

What, then, did our churches do?

On Sunday, May 20, they had other things which had the priority.

They were committed by a calendar and a tradition which antedates even British parliamentary institutions to celebrate the great Christian festival of Whitsunday.

They could not even make room for Battle of the Atlantic Sunday which somebody in the department of national defence had decided to observe on that same day.

To be sure, the active members of the RCN did their duty by attending special services arranged by the chaplains, and all honor to them.

However, the fact remains that there are more veterans of the Battle of the Atlantic out of the navy these days than are in it. You'll find them on civvy street. You'll even find them doing a job of work for God in their respective churches.

A little while ago, certain enterprising Victorians (including the mayor) carried the legend of Victoria across the prairies to Winnipeg dressed up as Burlington Bertles. I am told that the publicity was a success.

Think what would have happened if Victoria had insisted upon celebrating Victoria Day on Thursday, the twenty-fourth of May. The country would then know that we had a backbone as well as a bowler hat!

Famed Correspondent Speaks Here May 30

MATTHEW HALTON

Matthew Halton, well-known Canadian foreign and war correspondent and currently chief representative of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will be guest speaker at a Canadian Club luncheon May 30 in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Halton, brother of Daily Colonist publisher Seth Halton, was the London correspondent of the Toronto Star from 1932 to 1940 when he joined the CBC as senior war correspondent.

In 1943 he wrote "Ten Years to Alamein."

As a foreign correspondent for close to 25 years, Mr. Halton gained wide experience of British and European affairs. He write stories from the battle-fields of the Spanish civil war, Russo-Finnish war; and every theatre of the Second World War, including Burma, the desert war with the Eighth army, the Syrian, Sicilian and Italian campaigns and in north-western Europe from D-day to V-E day.

With headquarters and home in London, Mr. Halton covers Britain and much of Europe for the CBC. In the last year he has spent a month in Germany, attended the two Geneva conferences and visited the Gold Coast of Africa.

The first telegraph line between Quebec City and Toronto was completed in 1847.

Drunk Driver Wins Praise

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) —A motorist who asked to be arrested on charges of intoxication was dismissed from municipal court Tuesday with a word of praise. "There would be far less accidents and fatalities if more people would do the same thing," said Judge William T. Caughey. Keith W. Strickland, 37, said, "I thought I was too drunk to drive—that's why I called the police to come and get me."

City Meeting Planned By Community Chests

Fourth annual meeting of the Washington and British Columbia Association of Community Chests and United Funds will be held in Victoria next May, it was announced yesterday.

Victoria was chosen as the 1957 site during the recent conference of the group in Port Angeles. This city was represented at the meeting by R. B. Wilson, Chest president; Harry Gladwell, campaign chairman, and Ron Hooper, executive secretary.

Mrs. C. N. Webster, president of Port Angeles United Fund, was elected president of the organization. Jordan F. D. Guy, Vancouver Chest budget chairman, was chosen vice-president.

Four main problems which received longest consideration by the 34 delegates were: budgets, fair share giving standards, quota determination, and health and welfare planning.

Delegates attended from Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster, B.C.; and Vancouver, Seattle, Richland, Yakima, Bremerton, Everett, Tacoma, Bellingham, Moses Lake, Olympia and Port Angeles, Wash.

'Piece of Cake', Says Young Airman Thrown from Jet Going 250 MPH

COMOX, B.C. (CP) — A young airman who bailed out of a jet plane travelling 250 miles an hour said Wednesday there really wasn't anything to it.

Flying Officer Ken Parker, 23, from Lockerby, Ont., who fired himself from a CF-100 fighter Tuesday by triggering his explosive-powered ejection seat, said:

"I just pulled the old handle and the next thing I knew I was floating down toward the water in my parachute."

FO Parker bailed out on orders of the pilot, FO L. F. Bolger, 27, of Kingston, Ont., after the engines of the jet quit. Bolger was later able to restart the engines and land the heavy jet.

"We jettisoned the canopy first and when Bolger told me to go, I pulled the seat ejector handle. There was a loud bang and I felt myself somersaulting through the air.

"I didn't experience any buffeting, and there wasn't any shock," he said. "The next thing I knew the seat had fallen away and my guide chute had opened and I was right side up, floating down to the water. . . . I inflated my dinghy and paddled ashore."

Fire Drill Surprise To Loggers

PORT ALBERNI — Three hundred and fifty men in an area covering over 32 miles were alerted to protect their jobs in a full dress fire fighting rehearsal Wednesday morning at a setting in Sproat Lake logging division.

Within five minutes of the time when the warning whistle was blown at tree 9, branch 102, near Dixon Lake, work had stopped on every setting from Coos creek to Deep lake. The exercise was unannounced and was staged to test the efficiency of an elaborate fire protection system.

Radio CHUB Seeks Potent Wavelength

NANAIMO A bid will be for the only 10,000-watt frequency wave-length station on the west coast.

Manager of the city station, Chuck Rudd, said Tuesday every effort would be made to secure the frequency for Nanaimo, although he was sure other radio stations would also attempt to obtain it.

The department of transport recently, he told the Kiwanis Club. It was formerly the CBC station in Vancouver, operated in channel 1130.

Mr. Rudd said range of the channel, if operated from Nanaimo, would travel all the way up Island and down to certain lower regions of Victoria.

Paying for Development

Most Island Users Face Increase In Electricity Bills

B.C. Power Commission yesterday announced a revision of rates for all customers served by the public-owned utility designed to bring in an estimated $720,000 in additional revenue annually.

There are some 25,000 commission customers on Vancouver Island.

Officials were quick to point out that there had been no blanket increase in rates and that some customers would actually have lower bills.

Main feature is the withdrawal of the 10 per cent prompt payment discount privileges from all classes of service.

Top management of the commission explained that when a service was sold at cost and costs went up, charges to those who use the service must be adjusted to provide the additional revenue required.

"The demand for power on our system is continuing to increase at a staggering rate," said chairman T. H. Crosby. "Our 1955 load will be doubled by 1958 and more than tripled by 1961."

DEVELOPMENT COSTS

Cost of developing new sources of power resulted in higher capital charges which must be met by the commission, he said.

"This increase in costs must be supported from revenue," he continued. "It is our job to provide the best possible service to our customers. We will stand for no half measures in that regard. But the money can only come from one source—our customers."

Revisions have been made in certain of the "block" charges for monthly energy consumption, some upward, some downward.

Minimum bills have been reduced to $1 for residential customers whose minimums are now $2 or $3, if a major appliance such as an electric range is installed.

Special minimum bills now in effect in certain of the smaller isolated communities remain unchanged.

In the residential class there is no increase in the kilowatt hour charge for the three consumption blocks but a fourth block has been added in order that homes with extremely high monthly consumption, such as electrically heated dwellings, are assessed for the additional service required.

SOME REDUCTIONS

In many districts there are reductions in the first and second blocks of monthly consumption and in all cases the third residential block remains unchanged at one cent per kilowatt hour.

The fourth residential block will be 1½ cents per kilowatt hour except in some high-cost, isolated areas where the rate will be 2½ cents.

In the commercial classification first monthly consumption block is unchanged in most districts, reduced in some; the second block is unchanged and the third block is increased in many districts.

Officials said the bulk of increased revenue would come from commercial customers.

Examples of the new rates were given for Nanaimo and Duncan areas.

A residential customer using 150 kilowatt hours a month will pay $5 after June 1. He used to pay $4.50. In the suburban areas customers will pay $5 a month where the cost formerly was $4.86.

"Spiralling costs have caught up with us," general manager H. Lee Briggs said. "We cannot continue to give first-class service unless we develop new sources of power. . . . This cannot be done at today's costs on yesterday's rates."

Drunk Asks For Ride, Lands in Jail

NANAIMO — A Vancouver man asked police here for a ride in their car but got a short walk to a jail cell instead.

Gordon Alex Cranna was fined $10 and $5 costs yesterday after he pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place Tuesday evening. Police said Cranna, "in an advanced stage of intoxication," demanded a ride up Fitzwilliam street in the police car.

Cranna told the court he had a broken ankle and liquor affected his feet.

Unhappy Evening for Irish

Speedy Bobby Allan, high-scoring import from Peterborough who was held to only one goal last night, fires wide past Victoria Shamrock netminder Don Hamilton in Inter-City Lacrosse League action between Nanaimo and Shamrocks at Memorial Arena. Although Allan, who scored 14 goals in his club's first four games, clicked only once last night, the Timbermen had little trouble in drubbing the Rocks for the second straight game, 16-10. Anxiously watching Allan make his shot are Shamrock players Jack Thompson (second from left) and Lou Landess.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Sherry, Fulla Spark Nanaimo To Second Victory Over Rocks

By IAN GLENDAY

Nanaimo Timbermen, stacked with imports but sparked by a pair of homebrew players, swept to their second straight one-sided triumph over the Victoria Shamrocks at Memorial Arena last night to grab a five-point lead in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

Clever Don Sherry, who scored four goals on four shots in Timbermen's 21-7 rout of the Irish at Nanaimo Saturday, and big Fred Fulla, the league's outstanding goalie the past two seasons, led the powerful up-Island club to a 16-10 victory before 2,950 disappointed fans.

It was Nanaimo's fifth win in six starts this season, its only setback being a two-goal defeat at the hands of Vancouver Pils. And it was the Shamrocks' second straight loss after opening the season with three victories.

Last night's score: Nanaimo 16 at VICTORIA 10.
Next game tonight: VICTORIA at New Westminster.

LEADS SCORING

Sherry, speedy forward playing his second full season with the Timbermen, scored five goals on five shots last night and added one assist to move into the lead in the individual scoring race with 21 points, including 15 goals.

Fulla, always at his best against the Irish, again was sensational and proved the difference between the clubs in the opening half when the scrappy Shamrocks tied the score at 1-1 early in the first frame and twice battled back to within one goal of Nanaimo.

The portly Nanaimo netminder made 20 of his 25 saves in the first two quarters and came up with several key blocks when the Rocks pressed with an edge in manpower.

FANS IMPRESSED

It was the first look at Nanaimo, the defending league champions, for Victoria fans and most of them were impressed. Although they leaned toward individual plays and were sometimes sloppy and were a bit lazy the Timbermen showed plenty of offensive power and the ability to come up with the goals when needed.

The Timbermen showed speed in Bobby Allan, classy stickhandling star with Peterbourgh last season. Don Ashbee and Sherry. They had defensive power in coach Harry Wipper, well-remembered by Shamrock fans for his play with Peterborough in last year's Mann Cup final; peppery Lisle Scott, Bob Raffle and Derry Davies. And, of course, there was Fulla in goal.

ASHBEE GETS THREE

Ashbee and Raffle, who boasts a wicked shot, each scored three goals while Arnie Dugan, last year's coach, chipped in with a goal and four assists. Allan, who scored 14 goals in his club's first four games, was held to one goal last night but is second in the scoring race with 19 points followed by Ashbee with 18 and Dugan with 17.

Nanaimo played most of the 60 minutes with only two lines—Sherry, Ashbee and Dugan on one, and Spud Morrelli, Allan and Gogie Stewart on the other. Of the four other players dressed by the Timbermen, Joe White saw the most action although Bill Goode, Larry Giovando and Bud Dumont put in brief appearances.

ROCKS BATTLE

Shamrocks battled hard throughout and made things interesting in the first two periods. Trailing 5-1 midway through the opening frame, the Shamrocks pumped in three goals with the edge in manpower only to see the Timbermen come back with two straight markers.

A penalty to Raffle at three minutes of the second period set the stage for two Shamrock goals. Ashbee made it 8-6. Lew Landess again pulled the Rocks to within one goal at 8-7 but Raffle scored the next two markers to give Nanaimo a 10-7 lead at half-time.

Al Gill and defenceman Bill Bamford both turned in great performances in a losing cause. Gill, always a hustler, scored five goals and picked up two assists to boost his season's total to 17 points while Bamford helped on five goals, all of them coming on the odd-man play.

Pee Wee Bradshaw, injured in the second game of the season, was a surprise starter for the Rocks but was forced to leave the rugged contest midway through the final quarter with a four-stitch cut.

The Rocks move over to New Westminster tonight, with Tommy Druce listed in the lineup for the first time. Druce will be the utility player.

Pirates Ruin Cardinals' Bid

Pittsburgh's amazing Pirates ruined St. Louis' bid for first place in the National League last night as they knocked off the Cardinals, 6-0, and moved to within one-and-a-half games of the league-leading Milwaukee Braves, who were rained out at Brooklyn.

Bob Friend held the Cardinals, who now trail the Braves by 42 percentage points, to six hits as he notched his seventh victory against two defeats. Dale Long kept up his heavy hitting, clouting his 11th home run and driving in two runs in Pittsburgh's nine-hit attack off two pitchers.

In the only other game played in the National League, Monte Irvin and Harry Chiti smashed eighth-inning homers to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 5-4 win over the Philadelphia Phillies. Vito Valentinetti received credit for the first triumph of his major league career.

LENGTHY BATTLE

Kansas City Athletics finally pulled out of the American League cellar but had to go to extremes to do it — defeating Washington 7-6 in 17 innings.

The As three times scrambled from behind in the four-hour, five-minute marathon, scoring the deciding run on a wild pitch by Camilo Pascual, Washington's fifth pitcher.

New York Yankees were back in business with a 17-hit attack that made up for shabby pitching and fielding to wallop Detroit 13-5 and retain their 2½ game American League lead. Second place Cleveland kept pace as Herb Score won his fifth game in a 6-3 decision over Boston.

The defeat sent the Red Sox 1½ games behind the Indians and trimmed their edge over fourth-place Chicago to 1½ games as the White Sox beat Baltimore 3-2.

The As, now a half-game ahead of the Senators, came out of the first inning with a 3-2 lead, but had to rally for two in the ninth to tie it at 3-all. Washington broke the knot with one in the 17th, but Jim Finigan homered to tie it again in the bottom half and set up Pascual's errant toss as the clincher.

The Yankees, knocked off a six-game winning streak Tuesday by the Tigers, got rid of starter Billy Hoeft in a five-run second inning and then packed it away against Detroit bonus baby Jim Brady as Hank Bauer's three-run homer set off a six-run fifth.

Boston picked up all three runs at Cleveland in the eighth inning without a hit. Score issued half of his eight walks for one run and reliefer Don Mossie then walked in another and gave up a third marker on a sacrifice fly before retiring the side. Frank Sullivan lost his first.

Wildness also marked the Chicago-Baltimore game. The White Sox scored their big runs on bases-loaded walks in the fourth inning by reliefer Ray Moore. Jack Harshman, winning his second, walked home an Oriole run in the first inning and gave up the other in the fifth on three singles.

Quakers To Propose Two WHL Circuits

Saskatoon Quakers, who have operated in the red during the past two seasons, will propose that the Western Hockey League be split into two separate circuits with a shorter schedule at the league's annual meeting at Calgary next week.

Manager Norm Couch said yesterday the team wanted the interlocking schedule between the coastal and prairie divisions abandoned and the schedule reduced from 70 to 60 games. Couch also favors the proposal that players' salaries be reduced, an item already on the agenda.

A decision will be make by the Quaker executive after the meeting whether to continue operations during the 1956-57 season or to turn the club over to another group. However, Couch said he believed Saskatoon would have professional hockey next season.

Former O.C. Players To Aid Royals Friday

Victoria United and New Westminster Royals, Dominion soccer champions last year, will usher in the Pacific Coast Summer Soccer League season in Victoria Friday night when they clash at Royal Athletic park.

United, virtually the same club that played under the banner of Victoria City and Victoria Strathconas in the Coast Soccer League, will be making its first start in the five-team league.

The Royals, who have signed several new players for the summer league and yesterday added centre-forward John Hailey, were defeated, 4-1, by St. Andrews in their first start last week.

United has added two players who have seen Coast League action with Victoria teams. Named for reserve duty Friday ar eTim Walker and Bill McMillan, who have been playing with district league clubs.

Lanky Pete Winters, will be in the Victoria goal with Bill Hope and John Pickburn as fullback protection. Harold Holroyd, Joe Robbins and coach Willie Hamilton will form the half line with Ced Robb, Ernie Eastlake, Bill Abbott, George Wright and Ken Hibbert on the attacking unit. Cec Harrison may start at inside right if Eastlake's injured ankle is not reany.

Walker, McMillan, Charlie Mills and Harrison will be available as reserves.

The Royals, who in past years have presented an eye-catching brand of soccer, will field a club that includes six players with experience in Old Country junior and senior leagues.

KINNA IN GOAL

Big Jim Kinna, who joined the club recently from Pilseners will be on goal with Dave Stothard, who won the "rookie of the year" award in 1955, a certain starter at one of the fullback positions. Royals will be forced to find a replacement for fullback Buster Cairns, who aggravated a back injury in the opening match.

Veterans Joe Jordan, Pat Philley, Doug Craig, Dave Sullivan and Les Hibbert can play the fullback positions. Available for forward line duty will be Gogie Stewart, Tom Crane, Randy Jenkins, Harry Price, Rob Lewis, John Clifford and Hailey.

WITH EVERTON RESERVES

The colorful and clever little Stewart played a full season with Everton's reserve team in the English Football League's second division. Price has played for Sunderland's reserve team; Jankins has performed for Northampton of the third division and Fulham; Clifford played with Clyde and Stenhousemuir in the Scottish League; Lewis played junior professional soccer in Scotland, and Crane performed for Accrington Stanley before joining Royals this season.

Kickoff time will be 8.15. All children under 15 years of age who are accompanied by adults will be admitted free.

Bob McDonald Takes Top Rung on Ladder

Bob McDonald last night raised hopes of anglers who are aiming at one of the 50 available rungs in the first week of qualifying fishing in the annual Victoria - Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby.

McDonald, fishing off the marker at Deep Cove, hooked into a 28-pound, 14-ounce spring salmon around 7 p.m. and some anglers believe the catch may herald the start of a new run of fish into the inlet and an end to the poor fishing that has marked the first four days of the derby.

Taken on a strip teaser, used with 12 ounces of weight and a 15-pound test leader, the salmon earned McDonald a VSIAA bronze button and the top rung on the weekly ladder.

Three other fish were weighed in yesterday, two at the Goldstream end and one at Brentwood.

Gordon Aaronson improved his position with an eight-pound, two-ounce specimen and Rudy Clingle took over the sixth rung with a 7½-pounder.

Cecil Hunter is still in second place with his 17-pound, two-ounce catch and C. J. Rose remains in third place with the 17-pounder he took Monday.

High School Hurler Spins Fourth Straight No-Hitter

DOBBS FERRY, N.Y. (AP)—Move over, Carl Erskine, and make room for Dick Graham, right-handed pitcher for the Dobbs Ferry High school.

Graham hurled his fouth consecutive no-hit game Tuesday and now has a string of 29 hitless innings. He also had a previous no-hitter this season and has a 7-0 record. In 47 innings pitched this season he has yielded only six hits.

The young hurler is a junior, is 16 years of age and towers six foot six. Graham has no-hit each of the five other members in the Western Westchester County League.

Erskine, righthanded pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, pitched the second no-hit game of his major league career against New York Giants on May 12.

Rally Fails Towards Close At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A late sell-off knocked the props from under an early stock market rally Wednesday and the result was just one more decline.

Leading stocks took losses ranging from fractions to around two points. But the picture wasn't all black. Selected issues managed to hang on to sizable gains.

Nevertheless the market on average reached its lowest point since last Feb. 29—the day President Eisenhower announced he would be available for re-election. On that day the market took profits on a previous anticipatory rise.

Wall street analysts saw it as a continuing technical reaction. They noted that there was plenty of bearish news on which to kick the market downward from the start but it went up instead only declining when buy orders dried up as stocks gained. The market averages were still in the zone where either a rally or a sharp decline could be expected.

Toronto Prices Drift

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market declined irregularly in another session of slow trading Wednesday. Prices milled around uncertainly for most of the day, and a light sell-off toward the close left the market at its lows though a few issues moved against the trend.

The larger industrial price changes were mostly losses but were generally on small blocks of stock. Fractional gains in key areas gave the industrial index an early lift but the advantage was lost late in the session. Selected mines had moderate gains, but most senior issues lost ground. Western oils were irregular in narrow range trading.

Senior mines retreated under a $1.50 decline by International Nickel.

Kroy traded heavily among western oils for an 11-cent gain at $2.44 on reports from Oklahoma property. Bailey - Selburn firmed ¼, Rio Palmer and New British Dominion added 15 cents. Royalite lost ⅛ and General Pete A 35 cents.

Metal Shares Slip

MONTREAL (CP)—A few firm spots were evident but prices were lower in most sections of the industrial list at the close of moderate trading Wednesday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Aluminum and Noranda each slipped a point in a weak base metal group. Consolidated Smelters was ½ better but most others in the section were fractionally down.

Paper prices were irregularly higher. Calgary Power was a loser in a softer utilities section.

Trans Mountain gained 1¼ points in quiet trading in the pipelines while refining oils showed little change.

Mines were mixed in moderate dealings. Price changes were generally narrow.

Trojan Buck Trend

VANCOUVER — Prices slipped all round. Bralorne at 4.25, Granduc at 5.90, B.C. Forest Products at $16 and Pacific Pete at $16⅛ were lower among the leaders.

Odd firm spot in mines was Trojan which went ahead to 80 cents. United Oil was off 10 cents at 2.50. Capital Estates and Lucky Lager each dipped 5 cents, and B.C. Telephone was off 50 cents at $47.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fair domestic shipping demand in oats for eastern feed supplies highlighted trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Prices were firm.

Barley was less active and prices eased although some selling was in evidence and a few domestic shipping orders appeared. Rye was easier with some selling by American interests, a few shipping orders and some parcel lot sales to the Continent. A cargo of 360,000 bushels of rye was sold to Norway.

Flax prices were irregular. Some late buying for export showed and some business may have developed.

There was no information available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

CHICAGO (AP)—Fairly good overnight rains in Kansas depressed wheat on the board of trade. Losses never ran very large.

Old crop soybeans were ahead at times as Italy purchased some soybean oil overnight. Easiness in cash soybean oil checked the upswing. July $2.05¾-⅝, corn ¼-⅛.

Wheat closed ¾-1⅛ lower higher July $1.52¾-⅞, oats ¼ lower to ⅛ higher July 66, rye unchanged to ⅛ higher, July $1.21½ and soybeans ¾-2½ higher July $3.16-3.16½.

Crown Zellerbach Offer

Lumber Shares Deal Set

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Holders of Canadian Western Lumber shares who have been dividendless since 1953 when they declined to exchange their shares into those of Crown Zellerbach, are shortly to be given an opportunity of getting back into the income class.

Crown Zellerbach early in July is expected to make a public offering in Canada of 270,000 shares of its Canadian subsidiary, Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., and the minority holders of Canadian Western Lumber, (about four per cent of the total), will be given a chance to exchange into the new Crown Zellerbach Canada shares on a share for share basis.

On the strength of this promise the shares of Canadian Western Lumber rose by three dollars yesterday.

The new issue of 270,000 shares to the Canadian public is an effort by the San Francisco parent company to put some of the equity of its subsidiary into Canadian ownership. The percentage at the moment is less than one per cent but the new issue will increase the Canadian ownership to about five per cent.

It is pointed out that Crown Zellerbach would probably have made a bigger Canadian offering if it had not been for the anomalous Canadian tax situation which claims 15 per cent withholding tax for Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies with more than 5 per cent of the shares held in Canada. If the Canadian ownership is not more than five per cent then the withholding tax is only five per cent.

Finance Minister Harris in his recent budget indicated that some change in this law would probably be brought before Parliament in the near future.

Meantime the new Crown Zellerbach Canadian shares will probably be put on the market between $22 and $25 each with Wood Gundy and Co. doing the underwriting.

While a number of Canadians hold Crown Zellerbach stock, they have the disadvantage of not being able to claim the 20 per cent dividend credit and are also inconvenienced by the U.S. 15 per cent withholding tax.

The new shares, which will be eligible for dividend credits, may prove more attractive to the Canadian investor.

Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. owns the Pacific Mills at Ocean Falls, the [illegible] pulp mills at Duncan Bay, the Canadian Western Lumber Fraser Mills and numerous timber holdings including a forest management licence.

BOND MARKET FIRMS

A better tone in the Canadian government bond market has been noted in the past few days and last week the sale of treasury bills averaged 2.87 per cent down .03 per cent from the previous week.

Doubts still exist as to whether the bond market is stabilizing at its lower levels, and this would appear to depend, according to James Richardson and Sons, on the rate of increase in chartered bank loans and the amount of corporate financing to be done.

It is expected that the New foundland government's new guaranteed issue of $16,500,000 to build a railroad to the iron ore deposits of Canadian Javelin will be taken mainly in the U.S. and Europe.

STAINLESS PREFERRED

Atomic power plants and nuclear reactors may soon be using 20,000 tons of stainless steel a year according to Republic Steel, largest U.S. producer.

Stainless steel is favored in atomic energy metallurgy because of its corrosion resistance, its cleanability and its superiority over most other metals in its immunity to radioactivity.

Sea Wolf, latest atomic submarine used 300 tons of stainless steel.

CANADIAN SALES GOOD

Auto sales in the United States may be lower than they were in 1955 but that is not the case in Canada according to W. A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada.

Mr. Wecker says auto sales in Canada from the beginning of the year to the beginning of May were eight per cent above the corresponding total for 1955. GM, which was on strike for the first three months of 1956 is now working overtime to catch up on the demand.

NO INCREASE

No immediate increase in the price of crude oil is the forecast of M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, biggest corporation in [illegible]

Higher prices [illegible] necessary later owing to increase in labor and materials costs but the current supply and demand situation did not create a general increase in the crude price could be sustained.

Mr. Rathbone said 1956 oil consumption will go up five per cent in the United States and 10 per cent in the rest of the world from the 1955 totals.

TSE Presidency Full-Time Job

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto stock exchange announced Wednesday the appointment of Arthur J. Trebilcock as its first paid full-time president.

The exchange said the move will put the Toronto bourse in line with the executive pattern of the New York exchange and prepare the way for expansion.

Mr. Trebilcock, a native of Bowmanville, Ont., is generally credited with being the major force behind the growth of the Toronto stock exchange to the position of Canada's foremost listed trading centre.

London Prices Slump

LONDON (CP) — Widespread price falls were registered on London stock markets in the wake of Tuesday's Wall street slump.

Selling persisted in government issues and losses extended to ½. Industrials were generally depressed and Hudson's Bay and Bowaters were both lower.

South African golds were dull and base metals followed the down trend in coppers. Oils rallied after an easier opening.

Western Grocers Profits Lower

WINNIPEG (CP)—Net profit of Western Grocers Ltd. for the fiscal year ended Feb. 25, 1956 was $1,06[illegible] compared with $1,[illegible] for the year ended Dec. 31, 1954 the annual report shows. Fiscal year has been changed to end with the last Saturday of February.

Total sales volume increased slightly, said E. S. Cooper, president. Grocery tonnage rose but produce sales were off, the result it was believed, of the decline in farmers' cash income.

All common stock of the company is owned by George Weston Ltd.

Ethylene dibromide—a special aviation fuel formula now added to Chevron Supreme to bring you...

SKYPOWER!

Exclusive AVIATION BLEND puts new life in your car

- New freedom from knock
- Increased power
- Less engine wear

Giant airliners needed a gasoline anti-knock compound that fights deposits to assure maximum power . . . that's why ethylene dibromide was developed. Now—exclusive in Chevron Supreme—it does the same thing for modern high-compression cars.

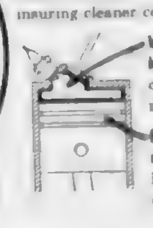
Where all ordinary gasolines allow deposits to build up around valves and spark plugs, Skypower helps get rid of them. It keeps your engine at its peak of power far longer — actually restores lost power. And it reduces wear by burning clean.

This important motor fuel advancement comes to you in the gasoline that introduced carburetor-cleaning "Detergent-Action." Try a tankful of Chevron Supreme with Skypower today. Cars with lower octane needs get peak power from Chevron Regular.

CHEVRON SUPREME GASOLINE

Why SKYPOWER is an important part of today's most modern motor fuel

It's a costly tetraethyl fluid from aviation gasoline (formula: ethylene dibromide). It increases the available power in high-compression cars by insuring cleaner combustion.



Vaporizes deposits that cause knock. These deposits raise octane requirement, create need for spark adjustment.

Helps prevent valve and piston ring wear by getting rid of impurities that cause most corrosion.

'Absolute Nonsense'

Realtor Denies Anti-Army Bias

A complaint of discrimination against families of soldiers by landlords and real estate agents in the renting of homes was described as "absolute nonsense" by B. Russell Ker, first vice-president of the Victoria Real Estate Board, yesterday.

In a letter to the editor of The Daily Colonist yesterday, Mrs. Vera Dunham said that after she had decided to rent a house, she applied at the agent's office and "was given a hefty slap in the face when I was told they couldn't rent the house to me as my husband is a soldier. They don't want soldiers."

Her husband is Cpl. William Dunham, 31 3rd Field Squadron RCE, stationed at Work Point Barracks. The couple has four children.

Mr. Ker said: "A lot of people don't want to rent their homes to families with children, but no real estate agent is against anybody in the services."

Ker and Stephenson Ltd., he said, [illegible] to rent many homes to the Queen's Own Rifles when they arrived in Victoria.

"We rented lots of places to soldiers and have never drawn a line because a man is in the services," he said.

In trying to find a "good tenant" [illegible] agents investigate the credit status and previous rental record of a prospective tenant, he said, but the fact a man is in the armed services does not enter the picture.

"In this case there may have been something wrong with the terms or something wrong with the landlord. He may not have wanted children. But I am sure it couldn't have been because the husband was in the services."

Campbell River Catch — In King Fisherman Test

Spinning Outfit, Fly Hooks 27 1/2 Pounder To Lead Contest

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A 27 1/2-pound spring salmon caught at Campbell River on spinning tackle and fly has taken the lead in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest.

It was weighed in at Painter's Lodge on Saturday and was among the first up-Island springs to be entered since the contest rules were relaxed to allow anglers north of Qualicum Bay to weigh in springs under 30 pounds.

Lucky angler was Russel C. Wilson at 2779 Peatt road Langford.

First trout to be weighed in the contest was a 2-pound, 9-ounce cutthroat caught in the B.C. Power Commission's John Hart reservoir at Campbell River by William F. Harrison of 2665 Asquith, Victoria.

He was using a lake troll and registered it at Marshall's Sporting Goods at Campbell River.

Most weigh-in stations have not yet reported their holiday weekend catches, but early reports indicate that fishing is picking up all over the Island. Some fine fish were registered at Oyster Bay and Campbell River.

Here are the early weigh-ins reported to the Colonist office.

What's Cooking! By Frances Thompson

Quantity Cooking for Clubs Needs Careful Preparation

Our subject this morning is in answer to many requests pre[illegible] readers are about to hold their last meeting before disbanding for the summer. Those who have already done so [illegible] deem it worthwhile to keep [illegible] ing until clubs reconvene in the fall.

"And after the meeting the speaker was entertained by the club members and a delicious lunch was served." How often do we read such words! Usually, that same lunch, tea, buffet supper or whatever the meal was, so readily enjoyed by the crowd, meant a lot of work for just a mere handful of people.

As you [illegible]

[illegible] not be [illegible] when it's [illegible] turn [illegible]

Whether the meal is for 20, 30 or 500 never forget the old proverb of too many cooks spoiling the broth. ONE chosen person should be responsible for [illegible] committees [illegible] say work [illegible] distributed [illegible] cooking for a crowd can be fun instead of a headache. Some readers will know of this plan [illegible]

The number of women needed on each of the following suggested committees can be determined, in a general way, by figuring ten per cent of the guests expected. For instance, a committee of ten is required to handle one hundred people. So whatever kind of large gathering it is going to be here is a suggested plan of action which can be modified to suit the occasion.

A LOVELIER YOU

IT'S A PLEASURE. A shampoo is one of life's little pleasures, making you feel a new woman while making your hair lovely. And delights can even be increased, if you take advantage of some pamper-type gadgets. A brush [illegible] for instance. Its brushing action thoroughly cleanses [illegible] and [illegible] its spray action provides a direct flow of water on the whole.

Other handy-dandies are shampoo goggles and plastic capes. They put an end to the only discomforts in shampooing: stinging eyes and splattered shoulders.

Church Women Back Nationwide Union

VANCOUVER (BUP)—B.C. representatives of two leading women's organizations of the United Church proposed union on a nation-wide scale.

Similar proposals are being made at all Canadian branches of the women's association and women's missionary society, delegates said at the annual B.C. conference of the United Church in Vancouver which ended Tuesday.

They said they expected the move to be officially recognized at the next national meeting, to be held within six months at Toronto.

Set Designer Remodels Movie Stars' Mansions

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD Anyone [illegible] a tour of Hollywood bedrooms now can know that Zsa Zsa Gabor's is very French, Jennifer Jones' has a refrigerator and Doris Duke sleeps in Valentino's canopied bed.

This revelation comes from one of Hollywood's top interior decorators who [illegible] everything from cloth-covered walls to old doors from Italian palaces in movie stars' homes.

Tony Duquette, also a movie set designer, was the protege of the late Elsie Mendl, the international socialite. Currently his style—described by Tony himself as do-it-yourself Medici—is the darling of the celebrities and he is busy redoing their mansions.

His main triumph was remodeling the old Rudolph Valentino home in Benedict Canyon for Doris Duke. The heiress [illegible] refused to let the press [illegible] peek at the place. But [illegible] reveals it looks [illegible] Venetian palace.

Cousins Christened Together

Mrs. Charlton and sons Randall, four years, Lee and Lawrance, two-year-old twins, and Gary, four months.

Four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Charlton, the former Kathleen Gretton, and their cousin Christopher Wayne White, were christened Sunday at St. Luke's church. In the top picture are Randall, four years old, Lee, twin Lawrance, two, and Gary, four months, pictured with their mother, who has brought the children from Vancouver for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gretton, Waterloo road. Below Mrs. E. C. White, the former Barbara Gretton, is pictured with six-month-old Christopher Wayne. Gary wore the christening robe in which his great-grandmother was christened. (Photos by Bud Kinsman.)

Designer Gives Rule for Buying Becoming Hats

NEW YORK (UP)—Designer [illegible] Marshall of New York says there is one important rule to follow when buying a hat.

It should never be at least as wide as the widest part of a woman's face.

[illegible] the cheek bones, [illegible] the widest part of [illegible] the jaw line. But watch the width.

[illegible]

When asked what type of woman is hardest to design hats for, he replied: "The woman who hates hats, but has to have one. She never will wear it becomingly."

"from Contented Cows"

Special qualities of Carnation not found in ordinary milk always keep ground beef moist and firm right through cooking . . . without fail

THREE NEW WAYS TO SERVE GROUND BEEF

⅔ cup (small can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
1 egg
1½ pounds ground beef
[illegible] cup cracker crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup grated onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
Blend all ingredients together until smooth

HAMBURGERS-ON-A-STICK. Make 24 small balls from meat mixture. Put tomato slice, hamburger ball, onion slice, hamburger ball, second tomato slice on each of 12 skewers. Broil 5 minutes on each side.

MEAT LOAF. Put meat mixture into paper-lined loaf pan (8" x 4" x 2"). Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 hour. Let loaf stand in pan 10 minutes, turn out on platter. Slice for serving.

QUICK "BROILED BURGERS". Form meat mixture into 6 large patties. Broil patties 10 minutes on one side, turn. Burgers. Top with tomato slice. Broil another 10 minutes, serve at once.

when you see a demonstration of the Educated Element at your Gurney dealer

The Gurney Educated Element is the most important range development since the automatic oven heat control. It watches over your cooking and controls the temperature so your food will never burn or boil over ... and it does it automatically ... without any attention from you. The Gurney Educated Element stops bacon and eggs from scorching and rice and spaghetti from boiling over. Cereals need no stirring, custards won't separate nor will soups or puddings burn when cooked on the Educated Element.

And as the exact heat is constantly maintained, cooking results are perfect in flavour and texture every time. Economical too ... every pot and pan is automatic.

THE Gurney "SUPER 30" ELECTRIC RANGE with the Educated Element

Just 30" wide but with so many wonderful work-saving features, it's simply unbelievable. TALKING DIAL SWITCHES allow you to dial hundreds of heats, from warm to fast fry. PRISMATIC EDGE LIGHTING gives soft, glare-free illumination. Also GIANT SIZE "EVEN-HEAT" OVEN, COLOUR SWEEP, EYE LEVEL CONTROL PANEL, REMOVABLE WINDOW IN DOOR, COLOUR INDICATOR DIALS, AIR-COOLED SIDE PANELS, ONE-KNOB AUTOMATIC OVEN COOKING CONTROL.

For the Special Offer—see the Educated Element demonstrated at any of the Gurney dealers listed below.

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

The hand that rocks the cradle also controls the TV [illegible] according to recent surveys. Nearly every program seen drew a bigger female audience. The men came off very badly in the polls.

Only "live" boxing rated a predominantly male audience. Women appear to have the last word on all other TV programs.

Perhaps mother is easier to please—women said they like just about every program on the air. The men accepted what came on the family screen but said they would have preferred something else.

The researchers came up with a few surprises too. Guess who goes for grunt and groan in a big way—the ladies! Women wrestling fans outnumbered men addicts of the ring by 2 to 1.

"Give him a glass of milk during 'Superman,' a bath after 'Robin Hood,' and put [illegible] to bed in the middle of 'Caesar's Hour.'"

Hotel TV — Television is coming to the Royal York hotel in Toronto. Twenty-one inch sets are being installed in all rooms. They will be equipped to receive four channels, Toronto, Hamilton and two Buffalo stations, being connected to a master antenna system.

The cost of the project gives some idea of the impact of television. The job will cost $220,000 when completed this fall.

* * *

PEACE ARCH CEREMONIES — KVOS-TV cameras will cover highlights of the annual ceremonies at the Peace Arch on the international boundary near Blaine, Wash. today.

Films of American-Canadian goodwill at the site will be seen on channel 12 at 7:40 tonight.

* * *

Grandpa Collins takes his girl friend for a ride in an ancient airplane on Bob Cummings' 8 o'clock show tonight.

Baseball from Vancouver's Capilano Stadium is seen on channel 13 at 8 p.m.

"Shadow of Evil" is the dramatic story on "Climax" 8:30 feature on channel 11 and 12.

Jan Wyman presents a channel 2 play, "Crazy Quilt" at the same hour.

Explosive action is on channel 4 as a desperate man takes the "Stagecoach to Paradise" at 9.

Two men are rivals for the same girl on "Star Tonight" channel 5 story at 9.

"A Night to Remember" is a repeat of the famous TV drama of the sinking of the Titanic, on channel 2 at 9.

Dick Powell stars in the channel 11 presentation "One Forty Two" at 9:30.

Ford Theatre drama "Sheila" stars Irene Dunne on channel 4 at 9:30 and channel 12 at 10:30.

The popular Vancouver musical show, "Lolly Too Dum" is on channel 2 at 10.

Strange photos of the distant past turn up on Science Fiction theatre at 10:30, on channel 5.

A desperate manhunt in Lappland marks, "Valley of the Eagles" channel 12 movie at 11.

Women Alone" is the title of the channel 2 picture slated for 11:15.

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1956

Today's quotation: "Don't refuse to go on an occasional wild goose chase, that is what wild geese are made for." —Anonymous

Thursday for everyone: Don't be hasty or irritable during the daytime. The evening favors accomplishment or sociability.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Take the initiative, snap up preferred breaks in the evening. Temporize, use proven route in the daytime.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus): Hold confidential conferences, surmount obstacles in the evening. Save money, energy in the daytime.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini): Avert inharmony, be [illegible] during evening.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer): Get things straight, ward off haste, errors in judgment. Gain ground in parental matters. Promote ambitions in the evening.

July 23 to Aug 22 (Leo): Enlist support, make headway in the evening. Hold off on chance-taking in the daytime.

Aug 23 to Sept 22 (Virgo): Finish things, be at home or in base of operations in the evening. Be prudent, clear headed in the daytime.

Sept 23 to Oct 22 (Libra): Avoid quarrels, idle talk in the afternoon. Lend an ear to associates, dear ones in the evening.

Oct 23 to Nov 21 (Scorpio): Follow a wait and see policy in the afternoon but make satisfying headway regarding finances, purchases during the evening.

Nov 22 to Dec 21 (Sagittarius): Shun conniving, dissension; get the right angle on things in the daytime. Press toward goals in the evening.

Dec 22 to Jan 19 (Capricorn): Bring issues to an advantageous finish in the evening. Daytime: don't jeopardize position, safety, credit.

Jan 20 to Feb 18 (Aquarius): Develop budding friendships, cash in on opportunities in the evening. Be [illegible] in daytime.

Feb 19 to March 20 (Pisces): Shake off tension, keep an eye on expenses, obligations. Forward ambitions in the evening.

Planning ahead: Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: May 25, morning of 26, 29, 30, June 1, evening of ...

UPLANDS

Set well back from the road on a 115'x186' lot, this particularly lovely 4-year-old home will surely meet the requirements of the most discriminating buyer. From the front of the attached double garage, wide steps lead to a very nice weather protected entrance. A well-proportioned L-shaped through hall gives access to a large living room, full-size dining room, a completely modern kitchen and utility, a lovely birch-panelled study, bathroom with built-in vanity, two twin-size bedrooms. There is a full cement basement with attractive maid's quarters and an excellent hot-water heating plant. The house is completely insulated and the doors are weather stripped. The very best of workmanship and planning are evident. The floors are ¾ oak throughout. The house is most tastefully decorated and the whole property is immaculate. Quite frankly this home carries our highest recommendation in all respects. It can be inspected by appointment only. An exclusive listing with F. N. Cabeldu Ltd. Price $29,000

Spills Mark Thetis Lake Motor Races

More than 2,000 persons saw three boats spill and a card of thrilling races at Thetis Lake Park Sunday.

Choppy water added to the hazards of the course.

Canadian champ Brad Clark of Vernon, and his brother, Cece, won respectively "B" runabout, utility and hydroplane class races.

Bob Wensley of Victoria won the "B" inboard class in the heats.

Reluctant Soldiers Halt Train

DIJON, France (Reuters) — Young reservists fired pistols and threw a grenade as they swarmed from a troop train near here Wednesday in a demonstration against being sent to fight in Algeria.

No one was injured.

So far the train, which left from the Paris area Tuesday for Marseille, has been brought to an abrupt stop nine times by the soldiers pulling the brake cord or disconnecting the coach couplings.

Each time the train has stopped, some of the 1,041 reservists aboard have disappeared to the nearest bars.

Radio-TV Hearings

Probers Range From Finances To Soap Opera

By JOHN LeBLANC

EDMONTON (CP)—The Fowler Royal Commission on broadcasting is finding out that the federal government has handed it one of the most complex chores of the last few decades.

Its job of charting the course of broadcasting in Canada for perhaps the next decade, planning a balanced radio-TV diet for Canadians, figuring out finances and working out the right relationship between the CBC and private operators has involved it in a real juggling act.

Hearings started in Ottawa and the commission now is on a transcontinental tour. It can switch in a twinkling from high finance to horse opera; from basic principles of controlling broadcasting to the way a local station handles a choir-singing program.

INFORMALITY KEYNOTE

It gets complicated, but the three-man commission appears to be taking it all in its stride. Chairman R. M. Fowler and his two associates make up one of the most relaxed royal commissions in Canadian history, and at the same time one of the sharpest probers after facts.

The commission sits in an atmosphere of easy informality, with the chairman usually leaning back with a leg tossed over the arm of his chair.

Witnesses are free to deliver their material in any way they choose by reading a brief, summarizing it, or by plain off-the-cuff talking. But an incautious one who hasn't done his homework can suddenly find himself speared by a series of penetrating questions from one of anuber of the commissioners.

On Mr. Fowler's right is Edmond Turcotte, a former newspaperman and more lately ambassador to Colombia. On his left is James Stewart, Scottish-born president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Mr. Fowler himself is a lawyer and president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

When they start digging, sometimes they sound like Crown prosecutors examining a defence witness, though they attack either side of a particular issue with equal enthusiasm.

At each new hearing, chairman Fowler explains that, while the tenor of questioning may indicate the commissioners are taking sides, they have formed no judgments and will not until all the evidence is in. This will be during the fall.

"We're just after all the facts," Mr. Fowler tells the witnesses.

The eventual conclusions drawn from these facts by the commission undoubtedly will weigh heavily on the future of Canadian radio and television. For the commission has been given broad terms of reference to investigate and report on just about every facet of Canadian broadcasting.

However, its authority does not extend to recommending change in the government's basic idea that broadcasting and distribution of Canadian programs by a public agency will continue to be the central feature of Canadian broadcasting policy.

Within that limitation, the commission has found plenty of scope for controversy among the approximately 50 briefs already dealt with and the basic issues appear to be on the record now.

Vast Air Armada To Fight Insects

MONTREAL (BUP) — The advance guard of 91 planes began arriving from as far away as Texas and Georgia yesterday to launch a "battle of the budworm" in Quebec and New Brunswick forests.

The annual DDT spraying project at tree-top level is designed to kill the voracious insects that strip foliage from spruce trees and leave them dead in areas that provide timber for most of the world's newsprint.

Wheeler Airlines of St. Jovite, Que., a Laurentian mountain town north of Montreal, is prime contractor in the government-sponsored project that began in 1952.

President Tom Wheeler said the light, single-engined biplanes and their pilots were rounded up from several parts of Canada and from California, Washington state, Arizona and Texas.

The first group of 15 from the United States rendezvoused at Watertown, N.Y., yesterday for customs and immigration formalities and mechanical checks. They were scheduled to go from there to Montreal's Dorval airport and then fly north to the mountain airstrip at St. Jovite before heading for Megantic, Que., and Fredericton, N.B.

Fredericton is the main centre for the job of spraying some 2,000,000 acres of forest in New Brunswick and 400,000 acres in Quebec. From there, the planes will be assigned to airstrips cut out of the bush and operate from them.

Car-Ramming Murder Laid To Woman

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (Reuters)—A woman was accused in court here today of murdering the man she was in love with by knocking him down with her car, then turning and running over his body a second time.

Witnesses said she was jealous of his attentions to other women, and that he had become cool toward her.

Mrs. Barrie May Mercer, 41, was appearing on a preliminary hearing of a charge of murdering James Gardner Leslie April 19.

A witness, Reginald McFadgen, testified that the couple had had an argument, and that Mrs. Mercer turned the car and ran Leslie down at the roadside.

McFadgen said Mrs. Mercer turned the car again and sped over the prostrate body at 25 to 30 miles an hour. Leslie died in hospital shortly afterwards.
